Teachers' Strike in DC Moves Into 2nd Week

A Strike Sanction Forecast

By WILL E. THOMAS

Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Chairman William Schumacher might have set the tone for how trustees might approach the week-old teachers' strike in Daly City.

"Personally," he said at mid-day yesterday, "I think we ought to hold an olive branch in one hand and a club in the other; that is, be willing to negotiate on one hand and try to settle, and yet, have all the legal tools in the other in case your opponent becomes totally unreasonable."

Schumacher said he still saw the "only reasonable" alternative to be for the teachers to go back to work "and we'll negotiate whatever the court decides, regardless of an appeal."

That might have been the majority viewpoint when trustees met last night.

The meeting was hailed as crucial, for observers believed the future of the strike over Jefferson Classroom Teacher Association and American Federation of Teacher (Chapter 1481) demands for a termed contract with binding arbitration, would be forecast then.

There were indications earlier that teacher suspensions or dismissals would be recommended.

A meeting in San Mateo of the San Mateo Labor Council Executive Board at the same time, was expected to produce labor's sanction of the strike.

About 200 teachers met yesterday morning and teachers' legal positions were reviewed, then teachers fanned out into the community to talk further with parents.

Lee Dolson, the president of the San Francisco classroom teachers' unit, pledged support at the Tuesday session.

"You are terribly important to us out of the classroom on a matter of principle," he said.

The meeting was being conducted in the Church of Christ on Brotherhood Way, leading Dolson to comment:

"We too have a superintendent

Injunction Issue

Striking Teachers in DC File Countersuit

By BOB HEMINGWAY

The Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association filed a countersuit in Superior Court Tuesday seeking to force the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City to bargain in "good faith" with representatives of striking teachers.

In an answer and cross-complaint to the district's petition for an injunction to halt the strike, association attorney Duane B. Beason charges bad faith on the part of district officials in negotiations as the reason for picketing and withholding of services by teachers.

The district's action in seeking injunctive relief is "inappropriate . . . because the plaintiff does not come into court with clean hands," it is charged in the complaint.

The suit contends that the district has failed to comply with the Wintom Act and meet in good faith with the teachers' association.

In the cross-complaint, the association seeks to enjoin the district from refusing to meet in good faith the certificated employes council in all matters relating to definition of educational objects, from refusing to meet and confer in good faith relative to an agreement on binding arbitration in grievance procedures, and from refusing to enter into written agreement on all matters where agreement is reached.

A hearing on the injunction efforts is scheduled in Superior Court at Redwood City Friday at 9 a.m.

Effort to Delay Freeway Test Borings in San Bruno Fails

An effort at Monday's San Bruno City Council meeting to delay freeway test borings in the Crestmoor Canyon failed when councilmen refused to second a motion by councilman Tony Governale.

He wanted to ask the Division of Highways to delay the borings until the council freeway committee—he and Neil Christal—are able to have one more meeting with the Division.

Mrs. Sylvia Gregory, leader in a drive to place the proposed freeway on the ballot, termed the borings an "unnecessary insult to the canyon at this time" since it was still uncertain that the freeway ever would be built.

Mayor Maury Hamilton explained that the Division of Highways does not need the city's permission to bore on its land. It had wanted to make borings some months ago, but agreed to wait until its preliminary enviornmental report was in. This report was received two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ellie Larson, local Sierra Club representative, stressed that the environmental report received is "just a draft." In order to complete it, it must include all comments from other agencies. Closing date for such comments is October 27, after which a final statement will be drawn up. Any action before this report, she stressed, would be tantamount to ignoring the law requiring environmental reports.

Hamilton claimed that the Division of Highways was not required to make an environmental report at all on this project, since the law requiring one was passed too late to affect it.

Orville Wycoff of Trenton Drive, a member of the Crestmoor Canyon Committee, also joined in asking for a delay in the test borings. He urged that the Division of Highways be asked again to modify its freeway—now planned for eight lanes. He urged also that the council see to it that the report is widely circulated.

Joan Hinman of the 380-Eight group announced that the petition drive is within 39 signatures of its needed goal. Councilman George Corey told her that he understood that the petition was not in legal form to put the initiative on the ballot.

"We were advised by the Sierra Club lawyers that it is quite legal," the 17-year-old Crestmoor High graduate retorted firmly.

When City Attorney Joe Galligan was asked his opinion, he would only reply: "I have nothing before me to rule on. If they were talking to Sierra Club lawyers and they said it was all right, I'm sure it is all right."

Greenwood Wins Vote On Ouster

An attempt to oust Jefferson Elementary School District Supt. Frank L. Greenwood failed in Daly City last week, by a 3-2 vote.

Chairman Bill Schumacher, an attorney, said Greenwood's level of performance "leaves much to be desired," but refused to side with trustees Mrs. Dorothy Adams and Mrs. Beverly Forrester. He was backed by Trustees Edward Tomasello and Al Collett.

One accusation in Mrs. Adam's statement of "illegal and insubordinate acts by the superintendent . . ." was that he "habitually attends upon his official duties at his office and at board meetings in a state of alcoholic intoxication."

He also was charged with allowing "erroneous terms of contracts to be presented to the board and that despite the board instruction that it would not consider his recommendation of an 11 month year for principals, he continued to negotiate on that basis with the administrative group for extra time without informing them of the board's position."

Schmuacher, who cast the deciding vote not to act against the controversial superintendent, said that his decision was based on District Attorney Keith Sorenson's statement that he could not win a court case with the list of complaints he was directed by trustees to evaluate.

He said that any of the alleged acts and omissions by Greenwood had to occur after July 1, 1971, not November 24, the date Greenwood was granted a new, four-year contract which became effective July 1.

Drugs Seized By D.C. Police

A Daly City man was arrested on 14 narcotics charges and police said they confiscated $10,000 worth of hashish, marijuana, LSD and other drugs Monday.

Donald D. Turi, 27, of 50 East Cavour, was charged with possession of dangerous drugs and possession of dangerous drugs for sale, and related violations after Daly City and San Francisco narcotics officers raided the Turi residence, the authorities said.

Turi, in custody in lieu of $10,000 bail, is a postal clerk at Rincon Annex, San Francisco.

Major S.S.F. Hotel Quits The Chamber

By BOB PETERSON

A major South San Francisco hotel has resigned from that city's chamber of commerce, claiming the chamber is partial in giving business to an out-of-city hotel.

Fred Rapp, co-owner of the Holiday Inn in a scathing letter to Chuck Whitlock, chamber president, said, "Inasmuch as verbal complaints have had no effect, I have taken the liberty of writing you this letter."

Rapp wrote a second letter announcing the resignation after Whitlock replied to this first letter.

In Rapp's first letter, he noted that the Hilton Inn (at the airport) was accepted as a chamber member within the last year.

"Since that time, the chamber has held their annual installation and awards dinner at the Hilton, scheduled the August luncheon meeting at the Hilton (and) made arrangements to have the Hilton included in the chamber's newest publication, "South San Francisco, the Balanced City, Where Industry Is a Good Neighbor."

Rapp added that "fortunately, before actual printing took place a complaint resulted in the Hilton being deleted from the publication.

"I was under the impression that the chamber of commerce was dedicated to attracting business and visitors to South San Francisco," said Rapp.

"Obviously, this situation (with the Hilton) is not in the best interest of South San Francisco or its business community."

In replying to Rapp's letter Whitlock denied that Rapp's views "were shared by a large percentage" of the chamber's 295 members.

Support Is Voiced For Senior Housing

By FRANK La PIERRE

An emotion-filled audience of more than 100 overflowed the Daly City council chambers last week in support of a proposed 112 unit low income apartment complex for senior citizens.

It was the first time the proposal, submitted by builder Bernard Hagan of Oakland, had been before the city council, although it had passed the city Planning Commission by a 3-2 vote some three months ago.

When the meeting ended, Hagan had agreed with the city council to again discuss the four story complex at an October 4 study session.

Mayor Bernard Lycett summed up his feelings after listening to Hagan, complex architect Paul Markling and several other citizens voice their support for the complex.

"A person would have to be a fool not to be for it — but we want it right."

"It" is a four-story, wood frame low income senior citizens complex proposed for a site at 169 First Avenue, in the Mission-Market street area of Daly City.

But the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is haggling with Hagan over certain features of the structure, namely the density problem.

The Daly City building is the same as Hagan's complex in South San Francisco, already approved by that city's council.

HUD is holding up approval of construction plans in the SSF complex because of size, too many units and the fourth floor.

Until these difficulties with HUD can be worked out Hogan has declined pressing HUD for the Daly City approval.

However, if Daly City first approves the plans it would give HUD reassurance that the complex is wanted, Hagan explained.

Council of P-TAs Seeks Child Safety

The Jefferson Council of P-TA's has expressed concern over the safety of the Daly City-Colma schoolchildren and planned yesterday to urge both the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association and the Jefferson Elementary School District's Board of Trustees actively seek a settlement of the current teachers' strike.

Mrs. Ruth Galindo, president of the Jefferson Council of PTA's, which includes all of the individual PTA unit officers, said all but two of the 20 unit presidents were present at a meeting yesterday.

The purpose of the session, she said, was to discuss the general health, welfare and safety of the district's 10,000 elementary school children during the strike of nearly half the Jefferson Elementary School District teachers Mrs. Galindo said the presidents "pretty well" represented the parents in the various sectors of the Daly City-Colma community, where there are 21 elementary and intermediate schools.

While their opinions on the strike were varied and their reaction to the rhetoric from teachers, administrators, trus-asked for more time to study the matter.

Lycett called it "an unusual situation," noting that "every member of this council is for a senior citizens development, but we want the best for our citizens."

Only one speaker, Hillside Homeowners' Improvement Association president Bill Durham, spoke against the four-story structure. He said his group had no objection to a three-story structure in the area.

Mr. Virgel Davis, city's senior citizens Spokesman for the group, jumped to her feet and admonished Durham through the council.

"Mr. Mayor, do you mean to tell me a few people would deny these people (the elderly) the pleasure of living in a decent place because they won't be able to see the ocean? Mrs. Davis asked.

Earlier, Mrs. Davis, gave an emotional plea for council approval of the proposal.

"How long must we wait . . . the time is now," she told the council, handing over a fact sheet and petitions.

The "fact sheet" disclosed present senior citizens' status and related information.

With the exception of Durham, each speaker received a warm round of applause.

One obstacle that has been tossed in Hagan's path is that all unit allocations to the Housing Authority from HUD have been canceled by the Federal Government and notices have been sent out to re-submit applications.

Also, the Housing Authority has not issued a letter of intent to enter into an agreement with Hagan.

Hagan expected to have the new HUD allocations for low cost housing units "within two or three weeks." They have been approved but have not "filtered down yet," he said.

One thing Hagan wanted to make perfectly clear:

"HUD has not rejected (our plans). There is some give and take regarding what HUD wants," Hagan said.

Councilman Louis J. Papan pressed Hagan for specifics on why HUD had turned back both the SSF and Daly City applications.

Hagan maintained "we did not get an outright rejection."

He said HUD's position has changed in recent days. William Poole, HUD's design review chief in the Bay Area, gave his okeh on the project and forwarded it again to HUD for action, according to the developer.

Councilman Papan asked if the mechanics of getting HUD approval were based on the council's action.

Hagan responded "no."

The fact that the plans submitted to the council were only preliminary made it near impossible for any conclusion to be arrived at by the city, City Manager David Rowe said.

Questions and answers between the council, staff and developer flew hot and heavy for an hour before Mayor Lycett asked if anyone in the audience wanted to speak on the subject.

Mrs. Troy Daniels, of the League of Women Voters, read a letter supporting the proposal and pointed out that while the league did not endorse any one builder it urged the council to move on this project for the benefit of the people.

The senior citizens dignity must be preserved and such a housing complex would be in this direction, according to Benita Twombly, who spoke in support of the project.

Many businessmen in the general area of the complex are in favor of it, Hiss Twombly said.

One woman—Margaret Amrose—said she did not know "whether it's amusing or appalling to watch you (the council) pussyfooting around (on this matter)."

D.C. Teachers Strike

whose name shouldn't be mentioned in church."

The labor council Monday referred a request for sanction of the joint American Federation of Teachers-California Teachers Association strike to its Executive Board, giving it full powers to grant sanction.

The decision to refer the matter to the Executive Board for action Tuesday, rather than at its meeting next Monday, was seen by observers as an indication that approval of the sanction will be given.

Teacher leaders declared yesterday that the substitute teachers are merely baby-sitting the district's children.

Superintendent Greenwood said Tuesday that a student absenteeism ratio of 10.6 per cent was evidenced Monday, the first day of classes.

He said that the district's normal first-day-of-school rate of absenteeism is between seven and eight per cent.

Enrollment Monday was set at about 8,070, he said, in contrast to pre-school anticipation of 9,400.

There were 365 teachers in the classrooms, Greenwood said, including 214 regulars. He estimated that between 203 and 220 teachers did not report for work and presumably were on the picket lines.

He said there was a surplus of substitutes.

Only one school — Woodrow Wilson — was totally crippled by the strike, he indicated. That plant was virtually deserted. In contrast, Garden Village School's 400-plus enrollment was down by only 22 pupils, according to reports.

There were no major incidents reported.

The issues are strictly non-economic and involve only the two JCTA demands for a mutually agreed upon termed contract that could not be altered without mutual teacher-trustee agreement, and binding arbitration.

The district attorney's office has advised trustees to avoid entering into further agreement involving a contract while last year's Memorandum of Agreement, the pact the teachers want renewed, remains in litigation.

Trustees have refused to compromise.

Trustees of the district declined this year to enter into a mutual pact with the JCTA. The board, instead, adopted a list of compiled policies, eliminating all references to joint action or decision upon the advice of District Attorney Keith Sorenson.

Anita Jackson, the JCTA president, said last week that the teachers want a paper which would guarantee its contents for a specified period.

Miss Jackson earlier this week chided the refusal of the board to agree to the mutual pact and binding arbitration.

She said that the refusal was along the lines advocated by the California School Boards Association. She asked who is running the Daly City schools.

A JCTA spokesman said yesterday that the California Supreme Court had never held a teacher strike to be illegal.

"Our support is growing rapidly," said Miss Jackson. "We are now solid in our determination to strike, picket and get the contract signed."

The teachers voted on September 7 against reporting on September 8 for required pre-school work.

About half the district's teachers were on picket lines that day, for the most part during the normal teaching hours. They stayed home on Thursday, a holiday, but returned to the picket lines on Friday.

There were efforts by the teacher organization's leadership to gain support for an agreement from at least three trustees over the weekend, and teams of teachers solicited community backing and involvement in a door-to-door campaign.

Transportation was provided on Monday but cafeteria service was not.

The JCTA earlier had labeled the temporary court restraining order issued late Friday and served on leaders Saturday as "another smokescreen by the school board to avoid face-to-face negotiations."

She said the teachers had been encouraged by what she called "overwhelming community support."

"This was obvious," she said, "when over 6,000 parents were personally contacted by large groups of teachers."

She said teachers were more determined and united as a result.

Public Labor Relations, Inc., has handled this year's negotiating with the teachers.

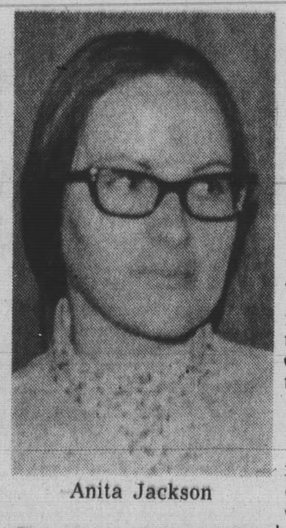
The firm's representatives, Ray Vetterlein and David Friedenberg, declared an impasse on the district's part Wednesday, the first day of the current strike.

Presiding Superior Judge Melvin E. Cohn Friday ordered striking elementary school teachers back into the classroom Monday morning.

The court's order, in the form of a temporary restraining order, required the teachers to report for work Monday and to not violate any rules and regulations established by the board of trustees of the district, which serves Daly City-Colma.

A hearing to require officials of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association to show cause why the order should not be made permanent was scheduled for next Friday at 9:30 a.m. before Superior Judge J. A. Branson in Redwood City.

The order was obtained from Judge Cohn by Deputy District Attorney Keith Breon on behalf of the school district.



Anita Jackson

The teachers' organization gained its Memorandum of agreement in an eleventh hour meeting with the trustees' negotiator last year, Paul Hupf, and a brief strike delayed the opening of school one day.

The JCTA last June voted to strike if there was not a negotiated agreement by August 31, the date the memorandum of agreement expired.

"The school board forced this action when it rejected the contract. We are at a crucial moment in our goal for quality education in Daly City."

The strike would last, she said, until the termed contract and binding arbitration are gained.

More than 240 teachers, nearly half of the JESD teaching staff, responded to an emergency meeting call from Miss Jackson Friday morning.

Miss Jackson said the specific purpose of the 8 a.m. meeting, at 45 St. Francis Square in Daly City, was for the JCTA and CTA leadership to listen to membership "feedback."

The JCTA board had met twice Thursday, she said, once with 40 members of the organization to learn their thoughts on the strike on non-economic issues after a somewhat cool reception by parents at a public meeting Wednesday night.

Among the first speakers at the meeting was Don Wollett, nationally prominent labor negotiations attorney, and professor of law at UC, Davis, and now legal advisor on negotiations for the 175,000-member California Teachers' Association.

Jim Cannon, a JCTA member said teacher leadership was "down" after the Wednesday meeting, but meetings yesterday with members and legal counselors produced confidence.

"Whatever we come out doing, we must do together," Cannon said.

Member Denis O'Leary, a chief negotiator for the JCTA on the Certificated Employes Council, said the teachers must get the board back to the bargaining table.

He said that parents will attempt to influence the weaker of the sides — either the school Board of Trustees or the JCTA — in an attempt to re-open the schools.

"We can get back to the table, if we don't fold," O'Leary said.

Wollett rapped the Board of Trustees for breaking off negotiations after the teachers went on strike.

Trustees met at 11:30 p.m. Thursday to approve emergency resolutions allowing for $40 daily pay to substitutes, who will be hired to replace regular teachers when school opens Monday, and permitting the superintendent to suspend any teacher who refuses to perform regular assignments.

Those and the other provisions are similar to the emergency steps taken last year, when teachers delayed school's opening by one day with a six-day strike.

Trustees, teachers, Supt. Frank L. Greenwood and other members of the community attended a public meeting at the Edison School prior to the board meeting.

Statements were issued and questions were answered about the negotiations and the strike.

According to some reports, parent attendance was considerably less than last year, when the Edison auditorium was filled for the same type of meeting.

"The teachers made an unfortunate mistake on choosing to strike at this time," Bill Schumacher, chairman of the JESD Board of Trustees, said Thursday.

"They put the board in a position in which it has no room to move at all. There is no room to compromise on the issues they chose to strike on," he said.

Schumacher, like Greenwood, has vowed that the Daly City schools will stay open.

tees and negotiators was mixed, the presidents were united in their concern for getting the children to school, through picket lines and traffic hazards, safely, Mrs. Galindo said.

Each of the presidents has discussed the strike situation with individual parents and has been on the schoolgrounds as an observor, she said.

"There have been many cases reported of children being told by teachers to go home," Mrs. Galindo said, "and this is a big concern."

She said some of the parents have been stopped at the picket line, asked why they were sending their children and told only baby-sitting was being offered by substitutes.

"The parents strongly feel that they can take the harrassment," Mrs. Galindo said, "but leave the children alone."

The PTA, she emphasized, has not taken a position on the strike issues.

But the PTA is trying to make sure information from both sides is available, she said. After that, she added, it is up to the individual parent to make up his own mind.

"Whatever their wishes," she said, "the parents should let the school board know."

plaints against Greenwood, but not until trustees Tomasello and Collett and Greenwood's attorney Albert Polonsky had protested.

"We have concluded that under all of the circumstances we would have little chance of successfully defending the district in court were it to declare the superintendent's contract terminated on the basis of his default in performing his duties and were the district to be sued on account of such termination," Sorenson wrote.

He said nearly all of the complaints stemmed from actions before the new contract became effective.

Apparently, the district attorney's opinion, dated Sept. 7, represented a change in thinking.

Mrs. Forrester said that the district attorney previously had advised her, Mrs. Adams and Schumacher, who had gone to Sorenson's office two at a time, to use the date of November 24 for compilation of complaints. He also told them the trio had sufficient charges and that the district attorney's office would represent the district in court.

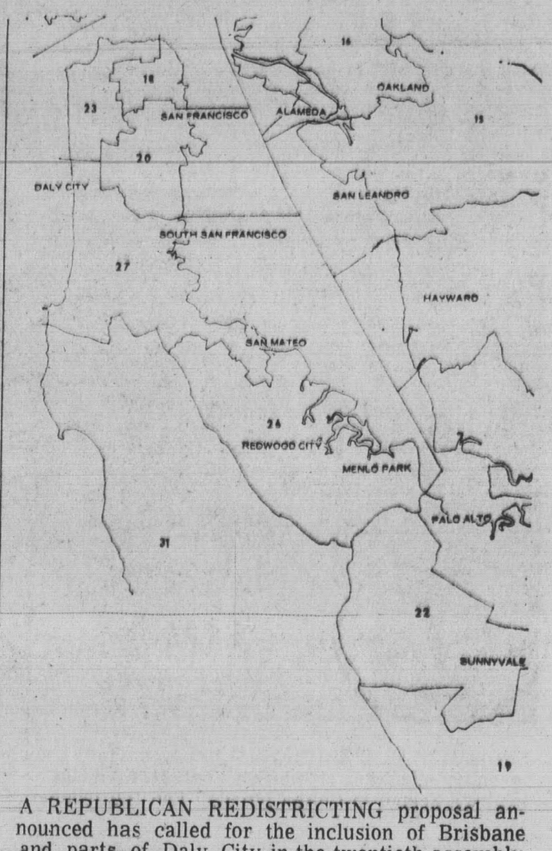
PATRICIA ERICKSON of Skyline College will speak Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Cabrillo School in Pacifica in the first of a series of six lectures on "How to Eat Well on Today's $$$." The series fee is $4.

Car Flips, Youth Hurt

A South San Francisco youth was injured Thursday when the car in which he was a passenger overturned on Sharp Park Road.

John Berkman, 16, of 202 Del Monte, South San Francisco, was admitted to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City for treatment of a fractured right hand and bruises, according to a hospital spokesman.

The driver, 18-year-old William A. Bradley of No. 6 San Felipe, South San Francisco, was uninjured, according to investigating Pacifica policemen.



A REPUBLICAN REDISTRICTING proposal announced has called for the inclusion of Brisbane and parts of Daly City in the twentieth assembly district, which at present is wholly contained within the borders of the City and County of San Francisco. The proposed twentieth district would have a high percentage of blacks in it and could result in the election of a black to an assembly seat there, the Republican proposal said. The twenty-seventh assembly district, which presently encompasses most of San Mateo County, would also lose territory to the Coastside thirty-first district.

Industrial Park Gets Green Light

Approval of a series of resolutions by South San Francisco councilmen has paved the way for the final step in development of the Cabot, Cabot and Forbes (CC&F) Industrial Park in that city.

The resolutions established an assessment district and set October 18 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed subdivision of approximately 5 acres.

Planning commissioners approved the final map on August 23. Councilmen adopted the resolutions Tuesday night.

The land is located on the east end of Cabot Court, and on "Radio Hill" in the Point San Bruno area. It will be subdivided into 13 lots and one sculpture common.

CC&F has agreed to the payment of a $50,000 "capacity charge" for hookup to South San Francisco's service systems, such as sewage and other necessary improvements.

Last year in August CC&F engineer Bob Zeibak presented a plan of his firm for proposed low density development, including warehouses, offices, motor hotels, shops and restaurants.

Three years ago CC&F presented a study showing development of the area, which is bounded roughly by Allerton Avenue, Forbes Boulevard, East Grand Avenue and Point San Bruno Boulevard, as high rise and high density.

The CC&E engineer last year said his firm pays $150,000 a year in taxes and payments on assessment districts just holding on to the property.

Speech Class to Start in SSF

The South San Francisco Adult School speech class begins its fifth year September 20 when doors open to Room B6 at 7 p.m.

Police in Pacifica Arrest 10

Pacifica Police on Friday broke up what they described as a "lively pot party" at a Santa Rosa Avenue home and arrested ten persons.

Officer Floyd McElroy "stumbled" onto the affair while answering a nusiance complaint about 10:30 p.m.

While standing at the front door of the home, McElroy said he smelled burning marijuana.

A subsequant investigation resulted in the arrest of nine persons on possession of marijuana and one person for being in a place where the illegal weed was being used.

Arrested and booked into County Jail at Redwood City for possession of marijuana were:

Patricia C. Wilson, 23, student, of San Francisco.

Michele J. Barman, 22, bookkeeper, of San Francisco.

Elaine Goldman, 22, also known as Elaine Schwarz, social worker, of San Francisco.

Michele D. Huber, 23 (no known occupation), of San Francisco.

Nesbit Crutchfield, 31, counselor, of Marin City.

Craig J. Moss, 22 (no known occupation), of Los Altos.

Philip A. Hartog, 21, silk screen instructor, 184 Santa Rose Avenue, Pacifica, and Lue A. Carson, 18, student, 184 Santa Rosa Avenue, Pacifica.

Arrested for being in a place where marijuana is being used was Charles F. "Chuck" Bachman, 19, of Los Altos. Bachman listed his occupation as "unemployed odd jobs."

DEATHS

HARRY B. DURKIN

Harry B. Durkin, 75, 1700 El Camino Real, South San Francisco, died September 4 at his home after a sudden illness. He was a native of Nebraska, and a local resident 12 years, and was a retired salesman for a mobile home agency here.

Survivors include one son, Walter, Bellevue, Wash.

Funeral services are being arranged at the Crosby-N. Gray chapel.

CHARLES H. REDDY

Charles H. Reddy, coach and teacher at James Denman Junior High School in San Francisco for 27 year and resident of 390 Poplar Avenue, San Bruno, died Monday in his home, after an illness. He was a native of California, and a long-time local resident. He was a member of the California Teachers' Association, and of the San Francisco Coaches' Association.

Survivors include his wife, Olive, and three children, Kathleen Cushman, Judith Nelson, and Jerry Battaglia, all of San Bruno, and three grandchildren.

Private services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at Chapel of the Highlands, Millbrae. Interment will be in Skylawn Cemetery west of San Mateo. Memorial contributions may be made to the Christ Lutheran Church Memorial Fund, Burlingame, or to a favorite charity.

Bus Blaze On Freeway

A San Francisco bound Greyhound bus with 25 passengers aboard caught fire on the Bayshore Freeway in South San Francisco at 4 p.m. Friday.

No one was hurt in the blaze which caused what one fireman described as "considerable damage" to the exterior and interior of the vehicle.

A passing motorist spotted the bus burning on the shoulder of the freeway where driver Mike Bollinger had stopped, and summoned aid.

Escapee Sentenced To Prison

Douglas L. Sage, 28, the first escapee in the August 22-23 jail break from San Mateo County jail to be recaptured, has been sent to state prison for another crime.

Sage pleaded guilty last week in Superior Court to charges of armed robbery and possession of stolen property and was sentenced to prison by Judge W. Howard Hartley.

Sage was apprehended by San Bruno police shortly after the $224 holdup of Ladera Liquors July 11. When captured, he had a pistol reported stolen from the home of a San Anselmo policeman.

Sage was being held in county jail when he escaped with six other prisoners through a utility corridor. He was recaptured two days later on a San Francisco street corner.

A charge of felony escape is pending against Sage, who is scheduled to appear in Southern District Municipal Court Thursday at 9:30 a.m. for preliminary hearing. Chief Criminal Deputy District Attorney Wilbur Johnson said his office plans to proceed with the prosecution on the escape, and that Sage will be returned from prison for his court appearances.

Johnson said he has been unable to confirm Sage's assertion that he also is an escapee from the Kansas State Penitentiary.

DEATHS

Broadmoor Won't Seek Annexation

Annexation to Daly City is the farthest thing from Broadmoor's mind.

This fact was pointed up in two meetings that tiny community had in recent months with "big brother" Daly City — the neighbor city that almost surrounds it.

Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett told the County Board of Supervisors during an informal luncheon meeting last week that continued talks with Broadmoor concerning annexation "are a waste of time."

Although the meetings were "affable" they were nonproductive, Lycett said.

Supervisor Robert S.t Clair said news of the annexation talk breakdown was "very disappointing."

He later stormed, "We've been duped."

The supervisors, acting as representatives of Broadmoor at the meeting, noted they had advanced that community some $60,000 to subsist while discussing annexation.

On this same theme, Senator Arlen Gregorio pushed through legislation that took the lid off certain property taxes for a one-year period.

Councilman Frak Pacelli said Broadmoor had not been the target of serious annexation talks since Howard Stikes was the Daly City city manager — some 12 years ago.

"If they (Broadmoor) want to assume the role of a city that's fine. Let them," Pacelli said, indicating Daly City had no intention of gobbling them up.

One complaint of Daly City is that Broadmoor uses certain services of the larger city but does not pay their "fair share."

The word "annexation" sparks an emotional outcry from Broadmoor residents officials agreed.

"They are not so much concerned about dollars and cents as they are about preserving their 'identity'," Supervisor (Mrs.) Jean Fassler said.

The supervisors indicated they were unanimously in favor of annexation of Broadmoor to Daly City.

As Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board, explained:

"Broadmoor needs to go into a city. It needs those urban services and support a larger city can supply. This board has supported . . . annexation procedures all along the way."

It is up to the people of Broadmoor whether annexation to Daly City will ever take place, Fitzgerald explained.

As Supervisor Gerald Day explained: "Legally Daly City can't initiate annexation and the county can't force it."

Lycett said he wanted to crush "this idea we are an ogre waiting to grab Broadmoor."

In the heaviest barrage directed at Broadmoor, Supervisor St. Clair warned, "If they can't reach agreement with Daly City then they will be back to our Board again asking 'what can we do now?' That's when we should take a hard stand."

Police Radio Pact OK'd

South San Francisco councilmen have authorized execution of the annual radio dispatcher service between that city's police department and the Broadmoor Police District.

Broadmoor pays $300 a month for the services. This cost is based on service provided 16 hours daily, Monday through Friday, and 24 hours a day on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

South San Francisco supplies its facilities to dispatch Broadmoor police and fire vehicles, and to answer Broadmoor's telephones when its police headquarters is unoccupied.

Three telephone circuits and two radio control circuits for transmitting and receiving messages in mobile units are supplied by Broadmoor.

Burglars Drop Loot

Someone threw a chunk of concrete through the window of a grocery store, then left an estimated $600 worth of loot in nearby weeds early Sept. 8 according to San Bruno police.

Officers said the burglary occurred between 1 and 2 a.m. at the Safeway store in the Pacific Heights Shopping Center.

According to police, numerous items were taken from the store, including beer, wine, cigarettes, small canned foods, meat, camera supplies and razor blades.

Police theorize the thieves apparently spotted a police unit in the area and abandonded their loot in a field behind the store.

Authorities staked out the area the rest of the night without further incident, police said.

County Sr. Forum Set In Daly City

Mayor "Bud" Lycett will speak at the September 16 meeting of the San Mateo County Senior Forum at the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission Street, Daly City.

The theme for the day's activities will be "Seniors Doing Big Things."

The meeting will be hosted by the Daly City Senior Citizen Club, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

Senior housing will be the main topic with featured speakers the Rev. Andersen Carter, Robert Jacobs and Glen Weiman.

All senior citizens of San Mateo County are invited to attend.

Mrs. Virgil Davis is president of the local club.

S.S.F. Driver Hurled 200 Feet, Survives

A South San Francisco woman driver suffered only a slightly injured shoulder when she was thrown 200 feet through the air, landing in a clump of bushes Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff Harvey Rutenberg, who was in the vehicle directly behind her said that Sirann Pungprakearti, 23, of 705 Linden Avenue, South San Francisco, looked "like a rag doll" as she flew through the air on the Whipple Avenue offramp at Bayshore Freeway in Redwood City.

Capt. Herbert Elvander of the sheriff's office, who came upon the scene immediately after, radioed, "Send an ambulance, or maybe you better call the coroner."

The two officers found the woman in a clump of bushes, semiconscious.

After the car overturned, it skidded 30 feet and smashed a pole. The driver was treated at Sequoia Hospital.

Festval Begins Thursday in SSF

Mater Dolorosa Church will hold its "Circus Daze" Festival for four days beginning September 16 at Miller and Willow Avenues, South San Francisco.

The major award raffle will include cash awards totaling $1,500 and a special award for young people of two 10-speed bikes.

There will be a variety of booths for children and adults, as well as an amusement park with a ferris wheel, roller coaster, and other rides.

Study Asked

County Supervisor Jean Fassler says she wants the county to determine if it can participate in developing a program for a low-cost spaying clinic for cats and dogs.

Her request Tuesday followed receipt of a letter from the Peninsula Animal Welfare Society, Inc., concerning the high costs of spaying female animals.

Mrs. Fassler requested the office of County Manager M. D. Tarshes to determine feasibility of the county joining in a program to lower the cost of spaying pets.

Knights Present Scholarships

Newly installed Grand Knight Tom Curr of Marian Council 3773 Knights of Columbus awarded Deborah Ann Scurlock, 43 Bismark St., Daly City a full scholarship.

Partial scholarships were awarded to James Gumina, Laurie Oliva and Michael C. Simon as part of the Marian Council's annual installation festivities held recently at the Broadmoor Community Center.

State Church Director Richard J. Etola and Assistant Regional coordinator Ben Price were in attendance.

District Deputy Jim Haug performed the installation of new officers.

Signups for Pre-school Programs Set in Pacifica

Registration for the Pacifica Recreation Department's pre-school program will be at 10 a.m. Sept. 21 at the Community Room of the Sharp Park Library, for residents of Pacifica.

Registration will continue after that time at the department office, 170 Santa Maria Avenue.

Non-resident registration will start at 9 a.m. Sept. 33.

The schedule for the fall season will provide morning and afternoon classes on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at Fairmont Center and Oddstad Center. Classes at Fairmont West Center will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, both mornings and afternoons and Thursday mornings. The hours for the morning class will be from 10 to noon, and the afternoon class from 1 to 3.

Pre-school classes at all centers will start during the week of Oct. 4. Children must be between the ages of 3½ and 5 years old. Birth certificates or some other proof of age will be required at the time of registration. Fee for the ten-week session will be $10 for residents; $12, for non-residents.

One of the new programs being offered will be a Girls' Glee Club for girls between the ages of 9-13 years. The girls will meet on Tuesday from 3:30-5 p.m. at the Sharp Park Library.

Mrs. Lonnie Turner, who will be conducting the glee club, has been working to put together a variety of new and old songs. She said no special musical talent is required for joining the glee club.

A desire to sing and interest in music is more important.

Registration for the glee club will be held at the community room in the library Sept. 28. The girls will start their meetings on Oct. 5. Registration fee for the program is $1 a month, to cover the cost of music and materials for the program.

Yoga is being rejuvenated in Pacifica. The class will include work in the background of yoga philosophy, yoga breathing, postures, relaxation and meditation. Yoga helps to develop coordination, balance, muscle one, breath control and self-discipline.

This is the description by Miss Barbra Morris, who will be instructing the course for the P.B.&R. Department.

The Yoga classes are to begin on Oct. 6 at Cabrillo School, from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Registration for the yoga class will begin on Sept. 20 at the Park, Beach & Recreation Department office. Fee for the ten-week session will be $7.50. Participants in the program should bring a mat for floor work and wear loose clothing or leotards.

Another popular program is a crochet class. This old art of stitchery is easy to learn and the results are incredible. Such has been the case with the crochet classes conducted today. Mrs. Helen Taylor, the Park, Beach & Recreation Department's crochet instructor, will start beginning classes on Tuesdays 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Ortega School, and on Fridays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at Oddstad Center. An intermediate class in crochet, for those who have taken the beginning course and wish to continue developing their interest in stitchery, will be held on Wednesday mornings from 10 to noon at Oddstad Center. Classes will begin during the week of Oct. 4.

Registration for the crochet classes will start Sept. 20. Registration fee for the ten-week session will be $5.

Pacificans who want to learn bridge or who have tried and need instruction, will be offered a beginners' class on Wednesday evenings from 7:30-9:30 at Ortega School.

Mrs. Pat Ostovar, the instructor, is a long-time bridge instructor and enthusiast.

Registration for the bridge classes, which start on Oct. 6, will start Sept. 20th. Fee for the 10-week session is $8.

Edgemont-Allen Teachers Feted In San Bruno

The annual P-TA luncheon was held at Allen School, Sept. 8, to welcome Edgemont and Allen principals and eachers.

The chairman for the luncheon was Mrs. Gary Thomas.

Other members on the committee wer: Mrs. Sidney Ingolsbe, Mrs. Donald Bankson, Mrs. James Cruson, Mrs. Jack Palm, and Mrs. Robert Marshall. Hostesses that helped serve were Mrs. Robert Pope, Mrs. Joseph Blundell, Mrs. Nova Jones, Mrs. Gary Mylin and Mrs. Phillip Del Carlo.

Mrs. Richard Rovatti decorated the tables with ivy garlands encircled with miniature marigolds.

On the place mats were clusters of white daisies.

Oneg Shabbat Luncheon Set

Mrs. Anthony Vella, president of Northern Peninsula Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training) has announced that the first event of her newly elected office will be an Oneg Shabbat lunch September 25.

The noon event will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Goldstrom, 64 Capay Circle, South San Francisco.

Mrs. Goldstrom is a national vice president. An ORT film will be shown. Mrs. Frank Gold, president of the Peninsula region, will be commentator.

Book Sale Set In Daly City

The fall season will be welcomed by the Friends of the Daly City Library with a used book sale September 25, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the parking lot in front of Alec's store, Colma.

Co-chairmen for the event are Messrs. and Mmes. Raymond Schnapp and . Schwarzbach.

The Friends' group is dedicated to serving the Daly City public libraries, and funds raised will be used to purchase special equipment for the library system.

Motivation: Caring About the Theatre

Caring about the theater, as opposed to show business is what brings British actor Brian Bedford back to San Francisco in the Phoenix Theater production of Moliere's "School For Wives," which opened Monday at the Geary Theatre.

That same motivation has prompted him to live permanently in the United States. Director Stephen Porter (who also directed last week's 'Harvey') and Bedford originally wanted to form a repertory company but found it financially impossible. They both acted with APA which was at one time the other half of Phoenix Theater and chose to stick with the latter half when APA folded.

"Now instead of calling ourselves a repertory company, we'll do it show by show and draw upon actors we admire," the soft spoken, Yorkshire, actor explained.

He came out of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts with such now illustrious names as Albert Finney, Alan Bates, and Peter O'Toole.

"We all came from the provinces of working class families. As soon as we got out of acting school, John Osborne wrote 'Look Back In Anger' and changed the English theater. All that 'anyone for tennis business stopped" and a new kind of acting was required. Unbeknownst to ourselfes, we were suddenly part of a movement."

Bedford moved more slowly than the others, staying with the legitimate stage of Shakespeare and Shaw. In London he acted in "Five Finger Exercise" (we saw him in San Francisco with that one), and "Private Ear and Public Eye" which was retitled "The Pad And How To Use It" for the film version in which he also appeared.

But better late than never, he was admitted into the ranks of winners, by theatre goers standards when he won the Tony Award last year for his Broadway protrayal of Arnolphe in "School For Wives," beating out such renowed Britishers, John Gielgud and Ralph Richardson in the same season.

"I haven't forsaken England. But frankly, I feel like an American tourist there with American money to spend. There is a complaceny in London I don't like. I prefer the agressive spirit of New York."

"Professionally I'm ambitious and New York has that atmosphere. Besides, the last few years I've become interested in money."

"English people are very snooty about America usually because they haven't seen enough of it. I'm astonished by the beauty of it and drive whenever I can. I've taken an apartment in Sausalito and will spend my days off at the Russian River or Mendocino while I'm here."

The role he plays is of a 42-year-old gentleman who has put a girl of four into the convent so that she can be reared in innocence and thereby become the perfect wife. It was an immediate hit of last season in New York by audiences who rarely see Moliere on the legitimate stage except for Bill Ball's delightful "Tartuffe."

It was rumoured that Moliere pattened the play after himself, having supposedly married his own daughter at age 17. She was introduced to his acting company as the daughter of an actress who was his known mistress. But little more than rumour ever substantiated that.

When this run is concluded, Bedford will team again with Tammy Grimes who was his partner in the successful revival of Noel Coward's "Private Lives." They do another period classic, "Chemin de Fer," a little known farce by Georges Feydeau.

"Theater in London has certainly changed since I got started.'

Fourteen years ago in "View From The Bridge," Tony Quayle had a line, 'the boy ain't right,' making a false inference to homosexuality. The Lord Chamberlain called it a dirty play and we had to close up and turn it into a private club. Now there is nudity, obscenity and much more right out in the open."

DC Troop 467 Meets Thursday

Thursday will be the date for the first fall 1971 meeting of Daly City Girl Scout Troop 476, according to Mrs. Fred Stewart, troop leader.

The girls of the troop will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the multi-use room of Vista Mar School; the adults will meet at the same place at 7:30 p.m.

Troop committee chairman is Mrs. Ray Marlow.

Dinner Honors Knight Allen

Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will hold their Past Grand Knight's Dinner September 18 at Lyle's Restaurant, 744 El Camino Real, South San Francisco.

The dinner is held annually to honor the out-going grand knight of the council. Glenn Allen is this year's honoree. He directed Marian Council toward winning eight state awards at the Knights of Columbus State Convention.

'Coaches' Format At SHSA Meet

The Serramonte High School Association (SHSA) will meet September 22 at 8 p.m. presenting a format for the evening of "Meet the Coaches."

A membership drive, headed by Mrs. George Hidzick, is underway. Enrollment is $2 a family.

A "Welcome Dance" will be held September 24, sponsored by the student body's executive board. Parents will serve as chaperones. Parents should notify vice principal Tom Mohr if they wish to assist.

Group to Meet

The nursery parents group of the Children's Health Home for Mentally Retarded Children and Adults will have its first meeting of the new school year today at 8 p.m., 515 East Poplar Avenue, San Mateo.

The guest speakers will be Mrs. Eve Savino, executive director, and Mrs. Esther Macy, director of the nursery program of the health home.

Organizations' Events Begin

Summer schedules have come to a sudden and screeching halt and almost all the local organizations are rocketing off into autumn with agendas well laden with activities

EDUCATIONAL supplies will be replenished with the monies raised by those young salesmen and women from the Holy Angel's parish school according to Mrs. Louis Caserza, Holy Angel's Women's Guild president.

Members of the fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes at the school began selling "Crunch-erino" candy on Monday and if your door bell hasn't been rung by one of the children yet, call Mrs. Conrad Reich, 756-250, and she'll see that you have an opportunity to buy some of the bars.

The sale will run until September 20 and it is hoped that there will be many satisfied customers who will be seeking to make addition candy purchases in the days ahead.

The children are working for individual and class prizes as well as to assist the school financially.

PLANS FOR THE October 16 fashion show and luncheon, to be sponsored by the Riordan Guild, were presented by Mrs. Michael Dudley, show chairman, during last evening's guild meeting in Chaminade Hall.

According to Mrs. John Ferguson, publicity chairman, the gathering was the first one to be presided over by newly installed president Mrs. Raymond Rinaldi.

The new guild cook book went on sale during the meeting and the refreshment committee served goodies prepared from the recipes included in the collection. Mrs. Ferguson indicated that anyone wishing to order one of the books may do so by sending $3.50 to cover handling and postage to the Riordan Guild Cook Book, 175 Phelan Avenue, San Francisco, or for information, call Mrs. Ferguson at 26-4163.

Recipes have been contributed by President Richard M. Nixon (barbecued chicken), Governor Ronald Reagan (California Casserole), Chef Oreste Orsi (veal scallopini), and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa (sukiyaki cacciatore), as well as by the members of the guild.

MRS. FRANK SPECHT of the Westlake Senior Citizens notes that men and women in the over 50 age bracket might find a good deal of enjoyment available to them through membership in the seniors group which meets every Wednesday in the Socail Hall of the Westlake Baptist Church, Southgate at Elmwood Drive.

The club is welcoming new members to its roster and anyone who feels interested should plan to drop by the church any Wednesday morning after 10 o'clock. She explained that members keep busy playing games, chatting with new friends, sewing on items to be sold at the annual bazaar or making lap robes for patients in convalescent homes.

The members dine together at noon, usually on sandwiches each brings from home, and coffee and dessert are served by the club. A short meeting follows the luncheon and there is an occasional afternoon program of entertainment.

MRS. DENNIS FRANCO, chairman of the North Peninsula Circle for the Florence Crittenton Home's 1971 fashion show, has announced that this year's event will feature an entirely new format.

Men's fashions as well as women's attire will be shown at a dinner dance to be held on October 16 at the Thunderbolt Hotel in Millbrae.

Mrs. Murray H. Freedman, publicity chairman, reports that "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen," will feature fashions from Arthur's of Westlake and The Fashion of Westlake as well as witty commentary by television personality Rolfe Peterson.

Assisting Mrs. Franco with the arrangements for the gala evening are Mrs. Howard Dunbar, Mrs. Angelo Carmassi and Mrs. Arthur Colman, the co-chairmen, and Mrs. Charles Poggio, the ticket chairman.

THE FIRST EVENT on the schedule for the Abraham Lincoln P-TA will be an exciting carnival on October 30, according to word from Mrs. Margaret Holland, publicity chairman.

This fall's events are being planned by Mrs. Dean Smith, unit president, and the members of the executive board, Mrs. Caesar Sabbatani and Mrs. George Nutting, the vice presidents, and Mrs. Ronald Oxenham, recording secretary; Mrs. Herman Erler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas Clark, financial secretary; Mrs. Richard Gardella, treasurer; Mrs. Masaharu Yoshioka, auditor; Mrs. John Pereira, historian, and Mrs. James Jiminez, the parliamentarian.

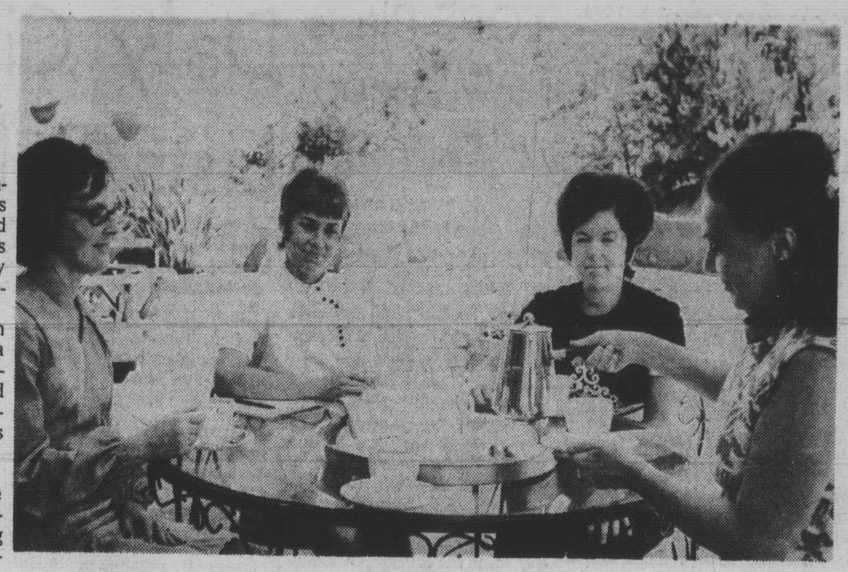
MRS. EARLINE WEIDER of Sonoma, the Bay-Peninsula Regional Council's chaplain for the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, was the special guest of honor at the recent meeting of the Beta Sigma chapter of the sorority.

Mrs. Esther M. Hall of Pacifica presided over the meeting which opened the fall schedule for the chapter. Mrs. Joyce Thompson was the hostess.

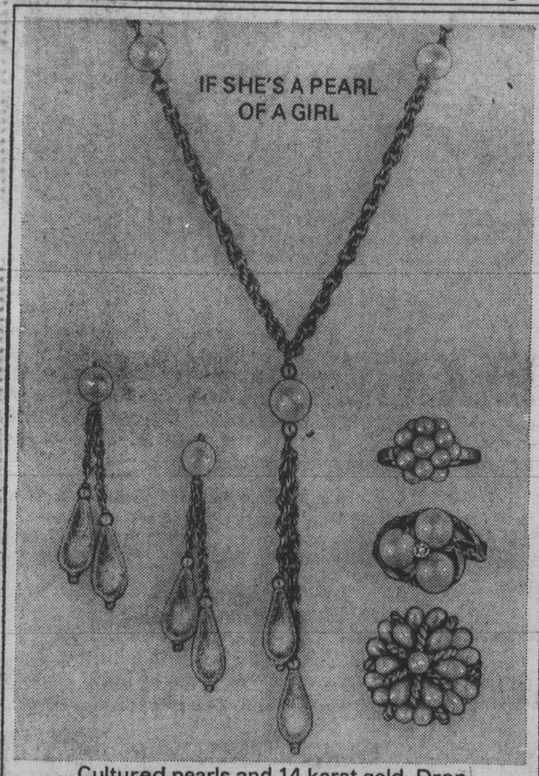
MRS. RUDY ENBERG of "Friends Outside" has issued a plea for men's clothing. particularly coats in sizes 36, 38, and 40, and pants in waist sizes 29, 30, and 32, to be placed in the society's clothes closet for the use of men who have been recently released from prison and who are attempting to redirect their lives in more meaningful ways. In addition to clothing, a set of twin beds, a living room rug and a chest of drawers are needed by families of men in prison, Mrs. Enberg noted.

The group does not give money but tries to make available the necessities for the maintenance of families in difficultiers arising from the complications caused by prison terms and conditions of rehabilitation.

According to Mrs. Enberg, a pantry is kept stocked with staples so that none of the families of men in prison need go hungry. However, at present the pantry is running low and anyone wishing to assist with this work is asked to bring contributions of staples, including dry cereals, rice, etc., to the area office, located in the Lakeside Presbyterian Church, on the corner of Nineteenth Avenue at Euvcalyptus Drive in San Francisco.



POOLSIDE PLANS were made by Mrs. Rene Cardinaux, Mrs. Richard W. Henson, Mrs. Jose Camahort, and Mrs. Jerald F. Golanty for the fall membership tea of the San Bruno American Association of University Women, Sept. 18, from 1-4 p.m. at the Golanty residence, 2945 Trousdale Dr., Burlingame. The AAUW North Peninsula Branch includes members from Burlingame, Daly City, Millbrae, San Bruno, South San Francisco, and Brisbane. Mrs. Robert C. Craig, membership chairman, 2518 Albright Way, South San Francisco has information.



Cultured pearls and 14 karat gold. Drop earrings, $25. Necklace, $59.50. Cluster ring, $30. Ring with diamond, $75. Dome cluster, $100.

First Fall Meeting For P-TA District

Leaders from 164 P-TA units in San Mateo County will meet September 16 at 9:30 a.m. in the CTA Building, 1705 Murchison Drive, Burlingame, for the first general meeting of the new school year of San Mateo County's Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Business items will include discussion and vote on the group's bylaws definition which concerns the number of voting members necessary for a quorum.

A mini-parliamentary workshop will be conducted by Mrs. C. W. Cadigan of Redwood City, parliamentarian.

News from the national and state P-TA groups will be presented by Mrs. Earl Oldham of San Bruno, president.

Membership envolopes and the newly designed membership cards will be available. The new card features a large block letter P-TA with a smaller PTSA nestled between the P and T. It is designed especially for use by both P-TA (Parent-Teacher Association) units as well as the growing number of PTSA (Parent-Teacher-Student Associations).

Reservations will be accepted for the October 21 district dinner to be held at the Thunderbolt Hotel in Millbrae. Mrs. Doyle Hoffman, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers will speak.

Games, Prizes Highlight Picnic

The annual picnic for members, friends and guests of the San Bruno Women's City Club will be held at San Bruno City Park, Area 2, September 19 beginning at 10 a.m.

Highlight of the picnic will be games and prizes for both children and adults.

An Organizational Girl Scout Meet

Daly City high school-age girls who are interested in a "Wide, unbroken view, a survey, a continuously changing scene" are invited to attend an organizational meeting of Daly City Senior Girl Scout Troop 24 on September 20 from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Broadmoor Presbyterian Church's social hall.

This is not a formal meeting, but will be an introduction to the local Panorama group for any girl in the tenth, eleventh or twelfth grades with ninth grade Cadettes also invited, according to Mrs. Rush Manbert, advisor.

The program will be varied with the inspiration of the eight major interests of trailblazing, community action, arts, international friendship, mounted, homemaking, mariner and wing patrols.

The senior program encompasses counselor in training, leader in training, senior planning, service aides and conferences as well as national and international opportunities.

A girl need not now or ever have been a Girl Scout to be a Senior Scout.

Emphasis will be upon the eight indispensibles of these laws (i.e., honesty, cheerfulness, courtesy, etc.) as well as girl troop management, active citizenship, voluntary service, health and safety, knowledge and skills, international friendship and vocational exploration.

TOPS Plans New Group At Fairmont

T.O.P.S. will soon have a daytime chapter meeting in the Fairmont area of Pacifica.

T.O.P.S. means Take Off Pounds Sensibly and members are involved in group therapy to take off pounds and keep them off. When a member who is being sensible about taking off pounds is tempted by fattening food she can call a T.O.P.S. friend and "talk it out."

T.O.P.S. members help each other out with moral support in the same manner as Acloholics Anonymous

T.O.P.S. is a 21-year-old organization strictly non-profit with over 12,000 chapters throughout the world. A member's doctor sets the weight goal and prescribes a diet best suited for the member's specific needs. Obese diabetics and expectant mothers are among members who follow their doctors' advice, yet receive encouraging praise from their new found friends.

Meeting weekly provides incentive and motivation to remain faithful to the diet. TO.P.S. is the only weight reduction method approved by the American Medical Association.

Guest speakers have included beauticians, dietitians, various types of doctors, and members themselves who have inspiring success stories to tell.

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Here we are in the middle of September. Vacation has ended for our schoolchildren and their teachers and it begins for mother. Are you sitting in the kitchen having that second or third cup of coffee and listening to the quiet? While you are sitting there, how about thinking about some cookies to put in school lunches? This first recipe makes a large quantity of crisp tasty cookies.

HONEY-FIG DAINTIES

1 cup dried figs
¾ cup shortening
1½ cups brown sugar
1 beaten egg
2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup honey
1 cup chopped walnuts

Chop the one cup dried figs very fine. Cream the three-fourths cup shortening and one and one-half cups brown sugar thoroughly. Blend in the one beaten egg. Sift the two and three-fourths cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon cinnamon. Add alternately to the creamed mixture with the fourth cup honey. Stir in the chopped figs and one cup chopped walnuts. Mix well.

Divide the dough in half. Shape into bars — about 1½-inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Refrigerate overnight. Slice into thin cookies, one-eighth to one-fourth inch thick. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 375-degree oven about 10 minutes.

Makes about 7 dozen cookies.

IN CASE YOU don't want to wait until tomorrow to bake cookies. These chocolate raisin cookies can be mixed and baked pronto.

CHOCOLATE RAISIN LACEYS

½ cup light or dark raisins
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¾ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup water
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups uncooked quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup chopped walnuts

Rinse and drain the half cup rasins. Chop the half cup chocolate bits coarsely.

Sift the three-fourths cup flour, half teaspoon each soda and salt into bowl. Add the half cup oil, fourth cup water, one cup brown sugar and teaspoon vanilla. Mix well. Stir in the one and one-half cups oats, half cup walnuts, raisins and chocolate bits. Blend well.

Drop by teaspoonfuls 2-inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake in 350-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Cool before storing.

Makes about 3½ dozen cookies.

LAST, BUT by no means least, here is recipe for a plain and delicious bar cookie.

SUGAR COOKIE SQUARES

½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 beaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup light cream
1 cup flour
pinch salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Cream the half cup shortening and one cup brown sugar. Add the two beaten eggs and one teaspoon vanilla. Sift together the one cup flour, pinch salt and one teaspoon baking powder. Add to creamed mixture and mix well.

Bake in greased 9x12-inch pan in 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut in squares and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

League of Women Voters Offers Government Book

Are you puzzled about your county government?

Do you know how San Mateo County is financed?

Do you know that the San Mateo County Charter is known nationally as a model for county reform?

How do you address your President, governor, legislator, or supervisor, when you write to protest or to praise?

All these questions and many, many more are answered in a 1971 publication of the San Mateo League of Women Voters — "San Mateo Government — A Guide To Your County." The booklet sells for 50 cents and may be purchased from Mrs. William DePuy or Mrs. Dan Robinson in Pacifica who are handling distribution.

This publication also may be purchased at any of the three unit meetings scheduled as follows:

Daly City Unit — Tuesday, September 14, 7:45 p.m., St. Martins Episcopal Church, 777 Southgate Avenue, Daly City.

Pacifica Unit — Wednesday, September 15, 9:30 a.m., St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, 1031 Valencia Way, Pacifica.

San Bruno-South San Francisco Unit — Thursday, September 16, 9:30 a.m., St. Thomas Church, 250 Courtland Drive, San Bruno.

Babysitting at the morning meetings is provided at a nominal fee. If transportation is needed to any of these unit meetings, call 756-9487.

At each of these meetings the subject to be discussed will be "San Mateo County — What Direction for the Future?" Any woman of voting age is invited to attend.

The League of Women Voters is a nationwide nonpartisan organization. It works to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in their government.

St. Citizens Get School Review

Serramonte High School Vice Principal Tom Mohr recently presented color slides of school activities to the Westlake Senior Citizens group.

Mohr also extended an invitation to the group to attend concerts, plays and sports events at the school simply by showing their Senior Citizen Membership Card.

The Westlake Senior Citizens, who meet every Wednesday in the Social Hall of the Westlake Baptist Church, have a bazaar scheduled for December 4.

Membership in the organization is open to all persons 50 years old or older.

Alpha Alpha Omicron To Entertain at Swim Party

The Alpha Alpha Omicron chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority will entertain members of the Delta Delta Tau chapter on Saturday at the home of Doris Anderson on Juanita Avenue in Pacifica.

Judy Nelson, Delta Delta Tau president, announced that 15 members from her chapter plan to attend.

Although the affair is primarily a swimming party, a luncheon also will be served. Each AAO member will bring her favorite salad for the guests' approval.

Alpha Alpha Omicron's next regular meeting will be September 20 at the home of Donna Drew on Grand Teton Drive, Park Pacifica. Carmita Langland will be Donna's cohostess, and a program on "Self-Analysis" will be conducted by Audrey Manabe.

THE RANDALL MESSERS (Anne Lavery)

Honeymoon In Acapulco For Justweds

Acapulco was the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Layne Messer who exchanged vows at St. Roberts Church in San Bruno.

The bride is the former Anne Elizabeth Lavery. She is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Howard of San Bruno and the late Joseph E. Lavery. Her bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Edward Suttow and Clifford Messer, both of Monterey.

Anne walked to the altar with her uncle, P. J. Lavery of Castro Valley. She wore a floor length ivory silk organza gown styled with long bishop sleeves, a high neck and a fully gathered court train.

Moss green crepe floor length costumes were worn by all the attendants who included Mrs. Gary Colocicco of Belmont, the bride's sister, Patricia Lavery, her cousin, and Mary Helen Thurner, her godchild, who served as the junior bridesmaid.

Gary Lowery of Monterey served as best man and ushers were Bradley Messer and Eugene Suttow, the benedict's brothers.

Randall will attend the College of San Mateo in the fall. He and his bride are making their first home in San Bruno

Shasta Trip After Marriage

A motor trip to Shasta Lake followed the recent marriage of Mr. and Mrs. James Jerome Hermann which took place at Our Lady of Refuge Church in LaHonda.

The bride is the former Gayle Marie Junkin. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Junkin of Millbrae who hosted a reception following the service at the Castaway Restaurant.

Gayle's wedding gown was fashioned with silk organza in a chapel length. It featured a scalloped lace batteau neckline and full bishop sleeves. Carol Ann Junkin, her sister's sole attendant, wore a lavender dress of polyester organza.

LeRoy Cisneros of Richmond was best man for the benedict who is the son of Mrs. Jack Jerome Hermann of Albany. Ushering duties were shared by Steven Noe of Albany and Alan Liner of Monte Rio.

The newlyweds are now living in San Mateo.

TIP OF THE TOPPER THIS WEEK GOES TO Millbrae Councilman James S. O'Conner Jr. for his "valiant" action during a recent County Council of Cities meet held in Brisbane.

Throughout the evening San Bruno Councilwoman Margaret Koskowski appeared to delight in making verbal comments regarding each and every speaker. Although she is new (having won the elected post after recall of San Bruno councilmen Ted Long and Richard Griffith) Mrs. Koskowski attempted to impress everyone at the meeting with her knowledge in things political.

At one point, during her more vociferous moments, she scored the County Council of Mayors. At another she slapped the councilmen, representatives of their own townspeople, many of whom have been attending these meetings for many years AND ACCOMPLISHING MUCH FOR THEIR CONSTITUENTS.

When she tired of jousting with those she obviously considered below her knowledge in wordly affairs she walked from the room to chit-chat with Charlotte Scholtz, representative to Senator Arlen Gregorio. When Senator Gregorio appeared at the meeting, he was greeted with an "There's my Arlen" or something along that line by Councilwoman Koskowski. As a State Senator, Gregorio is everybody's "Arlen" but we, like others at the official meeting of the cities, feel his title deserves something better than an informal "Arlen." It was O'Conner who took over the microphone and noted that "some persons walk out of the room when the meeting gets down to business." How true! When the "colorful" items were dispensed with and the meeting got down to listening to reports, some individuals decided elsewhere was the place to be. Afterall, who needs to listen to some silly reports that might benefit their city? Especially when they already know everything?

The NCCC was formed to pull cities together on matters affecting all. It won't be easy to tear them apart, but unless all officials take as keen an interest in the group as does O'Conner and most of the other members then there is a good chance it will fall by the wayside. In the years that this columnist has followed the NCCC from city to city, its members have proved to us they are there to WORK not just to socialize.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NOTES — What do they do on a sunny day in Dee Cee? They call the fire department to save a dog from himself. A LOL called for help last week after her canine got his paw caught in his choke chain and was, naturally, choking himself. The Smokeeaters quickly cut him loose.

THE FIFTEENTH ANNUAL Divoteer Open Golf blast, usually held at Silverado by Pete Markovich (and others) will NOT be held at Silverado this year due to higher costs (doesn't President Nixon's freeze apply?). The Divoteer will be played at the tricky Franklin Canyon course in Rodeo — 30 minutes away by car. The fellow with the answers is at 755-8526 before October 6.

I'M WORRIED — Just got a fortune cookie that read "He is thinking of you now, and very tenderly." What has me worried is: Who is he and why is he thinking of me tenderly?

HERE'S WHAT OUR SOURCE says JESD trustee Dorothy Adams muttered to fellow trustee Bill Schumaucher after he cast the tie-breaking vote NOT to fire superintendent Frank Greedwood last week: "I hope you get the job that Daly City promised you." But no one will comment on it.

ON THAT SENIOR CITIZENS complex proposed in D.C. by Bernard Hagan Construction Co., Hagan's architect claims the structure can be built cheaper using concrete instead of wood. Wood looks better, architect Marklin claims. And it's just as fire proof if certain precautions are taken . . . The name of Hillside Homeowners Association president is BUD Durham, not BILL as was reported. And BUD was speaking for BUD, not for the homeowners group, we now learn.

GET WELL CARDS to Helen Staub. Surgery at Mary's Help Hospital. She's fine, thank you.

PROBABLY THE GREATEST golf slice in the world is owned by Westlake's Jim Trevor, a member of the Olympic Club. Bud Lycett tells this one: Last week Trevor and Lycett were playing the ocean course at Olympic. On the seventh tee, which runs along the cliffs overlooking the ocean, Trevor faced the far away Farallon Islands, said a quick prayer and hit the ball. Instead of flying towards the islands and smoothly curling back onto the fairway, the ball flew a direct course towards the island. As Lycett tells it: "To this day the weathermen on that island can't explain where that golf ball came from." Come on Lycett, tell the truth. . . .

The Post gives its columnists a great deal of latitude, offering its readers the benefit of knowledgeable, varying opinion. Their opinions are not necessarily those of The Post which addresses itself to its readers only through clearly marked editorials.

THE POINT of this sign is obvious. It stands on the front lawn of Mrs. Bette Higgins, 701 Hillsdale, South San Francisco. She points to San Bruno Mountain in the background. Mrs. Higgins is actively working to keep the mountan development-free.

Conservationists Slate Walk on Mountain

Formality has taken over in the opposition to development of San Bruno Mountain.

The once nebulous group shapped by Mrs. Bette Higgins of 701 Hillside Blvd., South San Francisco, now has a name.

That name is "Save San Bruno Mountain," which also obviously is the object of the group now forming in the North County cities surrounding the mountain.

It was noted in a press release, also carrying the name of Mrs. Sylvia Gregory of 141 Madison Ave., San Bruno, that they are "determined to preserve the (San Bruno Mountain) park area that has been promised in the San Mateo County Parks and Open Space Plan."

According to the two women, the theme of the opposition is "Parks! Not ticky-tacky apartments."

The first sponsored activity is a "Walk on the Mountain," scheduled for October 3.

This walk is meant as an invitation to look closely at the sheltered areas visible from Guadalupe Parkway.

It also is intended to demonstrate the endangered beauty of the area "now threatened by hamburger stands and franchise outlets that are bound to follow 38,000 people onto the mountain."

The women said the group will urge an educated lobbying effort by the public to be directed at local and county legislators.

These politicians, plus state officials with a legislative interest in the mountain, will be invited to attend the walk.

The idea behind the lobbying effort is that no "hard" information is available about tax costs to the annexing city. There also have been no environmental studies made of the mountain, and the effect development will have on the Colma Creek flood control problem.

South San Francisco councilmen on September 8 did, however, instruct that city's staff to look into the cost of a feasibility study that would answer such questions.

to the Editor

Editor, The Post:

Thank you for your article in The Post entitled "Airport's Taxicab Service Is Intolerable for Peninsulans." On August 1st, I went to the Yellow Cab Stand desiring a taxi to take me home to the Westborough section of South San Francisco. I was greeted by a driver who upon hearing the destination became very hostile and reluctant to offer service..

The driver of Cab 889 refused to open the rear doors for myself and the other passenger, both of us who were holding hand luggage and also took our two pieces of large luggage and literally threw them into the front seat. When the driver stepped into the cab, he deliberately gave our luggage an extra shove to the side of the cab. After careful instruction on my part as to which freeway exit to take, the driver deliberately headed for an incorrect one and upon my redirection he swerved back into a driving lane nearly causing an accident.

I understand his reluctance to take a fare which pays less than the usual fare into San Francisco proper. However this should in no way reflect his service and the safety of the ride both of which do not come cheap as Peninsula residents know. I am in favor of a separate stand for Peninsula Yellow Cabs which I have always found to offer courteous and prompt service. This perhaps is the only solution to taxicab service at the airport for the Peninsula.

If my letter can be used to further the cause for separate cabs for the Peninsula residents, I give permission for it to be used along with my name. If I can be of further help in this fight, please let me know.

MARIANNE CHOY

Editor, The Post:

I, as an individual, wish to take issue with a sports article in the Post and the Enterprise Journal regarding the Daly City Recreation Summer Softball League. It mentions that the Daly City Dagos are in first place standings. I congratulate the "DAGOS" for their outstanding performance in sports, but find it very degrading that the use of the word "DAGO" is being used, and that the Daly City Recreation Department has shown little respect for this particular ethnic group in allowing this to happen.

I find it repulsive after Italians have fought discrimination in this country for many years and, even today, that we are using this connotation so lightly. Other ethnic groups do not call themselves the "Niggers," "Spics," "Krauts", or "Kikes" in front of the public. We have arrived when we are able to laugh at ourselves, but don't degrade our ethnic groups. Americans should identify with ethnic nationalities and I, most of all, am in favor of ethnic identification if it can be used as a positive means in integrating our social structure in this country.

Let's use some common sense beginning with the team and the Recreation Department. If you wish to be the "Italians" or better yet the "Italian-Americans", fine but the word "DAGO," let's keep it amongst ourselves.

Closer Look at Bruno Mountain

Another and more comprehensive look at the desirability of annexing San Bruno Mountain is being taken by South San Francisco officials.

In a unanimous decision last night the councilmen instructed the city staff to look into the cost of a feasibility study outlining what repercussions development of the mountain would have for the city.

The councilmen also said they would seek another postponement from a Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) request on whether the city wants the mountain included in its sphere of influence.

The city was to have sent a position letter to LAFCO by September 22. This date was a postponement from an original July date.

Councilman Frank Mammini led the way for the postponement and need for a complete study of what annexation and possible development means to the city.

A second to the motion was made by Councilman Warren Steinkamp, who said, "The major concern is one of finance. This is such a large project and so many things need to be looked at."

"Why is it so imperative that we tell LAFCO that we want it right now?" asked Mammini, mentioning that Daly City has told LAFCO that city isn't interested.

"They're still working for it, behind the scenes," said Mayor Bill Borba.

Mammini still contended that South San Francisco could get into a lot of trouble if the councilmen did not get a complete financial feasibility study.

City Planner Dan Pass said that the comprehensive type study being talked about would take six months to complete.

"You (the council) have the legal right to make a study to see if you want to pursue annexation," said City Attorney John Noonan.

Councilman Patrick Ahern suggested that if such a study were made it ought to be paid for by the developer who wishes to convince the city of the merits of such a project.

A figure of $100,000 minimum was suggested by resident Tony Montoya as the amount needed for such a study, saying owner Crocker Land Company already has spent at least that much on studies toward possible mountain development.

Montoya, a former council candidate, once again stressed the need to seek the formation of a recreation and open space assessment district, taxing county-wide to support it.

"The only solution you have (to preserve the mountain in a natural state) is to put it in the pocket of the taxpayers," said Montoya.

Mrs. Bette Higgins, housewife who has declared war on the mountain's development, said, "LAFCO is putting unjust pressure on cities (to get the letter in on sphere of influence)."

She said that the county long ago promised the saddle area of the mountain as a regional park for the North County.

"If that goes (to urbanization) the North County is left without one area for a regional park. And don't forget we (in the North County) are paying for all county regional parks now in the South County."

Mrs. Higgins suggested that Mayor Borba, an advocate of annexation and city-guided development, should be asking "What about us up here in the North County when it comes to park area?"

She said that a "walk on the mountain" is scheduled for October 3.

School Teacher Image Is Changing

Of a schoolteacher Robert Browning wrote, "He is the sallow, virgin-minded, studious martyr of mild enthusiasm."

Sinclair Lewis' picture of American educators shows them "like their literature clear, cold, pure and very dead."

After exploring the teacher's lot, H. L. Mencken said that "only an ass would teach school."

But the image is changing, and in the words of a Daly City teacher, "You better believe it."

Speaking of today's teachers Robert S. Kowalczyk said, "They walk picket lines. Among them are veterans of World War II of Korea (or Vietnam), gray-haired women, and mini-skirted beginners. They have a common bond and interest. Aware of the service they provide, they have pooled their intelligence and power. Experts in their field, they question their exclusion from the develoment of educational policy.

They view themselves as the best qualified persons to make decisions in matters dealing with the classroom. They realize that they have a right to say what salaries and what conditions are satisfactory."

SAMUEL CHANDLER

WHAT IS TRUE of teachers is more or less true of all public employes. Many feel they are the experts in their fields and, perhaps, therefore, more qualified to make decisions than citizens' boards and groups. They want more recognition than they have enjoyed in the past. They want part of the action.

The position of public employes is explained in a 1970 anthology entitled "Sorry . . . No Government Today" with a veteran reporter, Robert E. Walsh, from the Boston Globe, as editor.

In chapter after chapter the various authors explain that government workers are no longer content to be regarded as "the 97-pound weakling of the labor movement."

They believe in collective bargaining, Mr. Walsh explains, and are determined to use it to effect an employment situation that they deem desirable.

In reading the anthology, the reader becomes aware that government workers have entered the organized labor unions and are determined, as David L. Perlman says, to "become a more significant factor in the American labor movement."

"SORRY . . . No Government Today" is not a book for a closed mind — either pro or anti-labor. It is filled with statements that shake the reader. Indeed, it is filled with controversies between men and women who are involved within the various aspects of the employment of government workers.

The New York Times Book Review called "Sorry . . . No Government Today" a book of "earnest and thoughtful commentaries." The Library Journal said it is a book of "considerable use to those studying and those involved with labor relations in the public sector."

Love of Elections Clouds U.S. Vision

Elections! Americans look to elections for many things — excitement, victory, defeat, a mandate, and a cure of all of society's ills. With us these are the source of power and we are well attuned to the vagaries of popularity and luck.

Our view of the world is clouded by our love of elections. They have become a symbol and with a missionary and evangelical zeal we try to export a way of life and impose our method of government on others. Leaders of other nations often see elections as a menace to their own tenure and seem willing to do just about anything to avoid responsiblity to the people they govern.

Frustrated, we oversimplify and dream strange and deceptive dreams about our friends. We see democratic institutions where none exist and envelop raw power in imaginary trappings of freedom and liberty. We oversell ourselves on the good qualities of governments and leaders and discern virtue in the most unlikely places.

Such illusions have handicapped our foreign policy for over 30 years. Russia was at one time thought to be a "brotherhood democracy". Chiang Kai-shek was viewed as a successful champion of the people and maintainer of the democratic faith. Castro was an agrarian reformer. Our rhetoric about South America is impossible to square with reality.

Our reasoning is plain and simple (simple indeed!). Democracy is good. Our friends are good. Therefore, our friends are democratic.

Consider a case in point. It served, and may still serve, our national purpose to sustain Chiang Kai-shek as a balancing force in Formosa. But myth had it that Chiang was going to return to the mainland, that he was a great world leader, and that this ineffective dictator was, in fact, a man of the people.

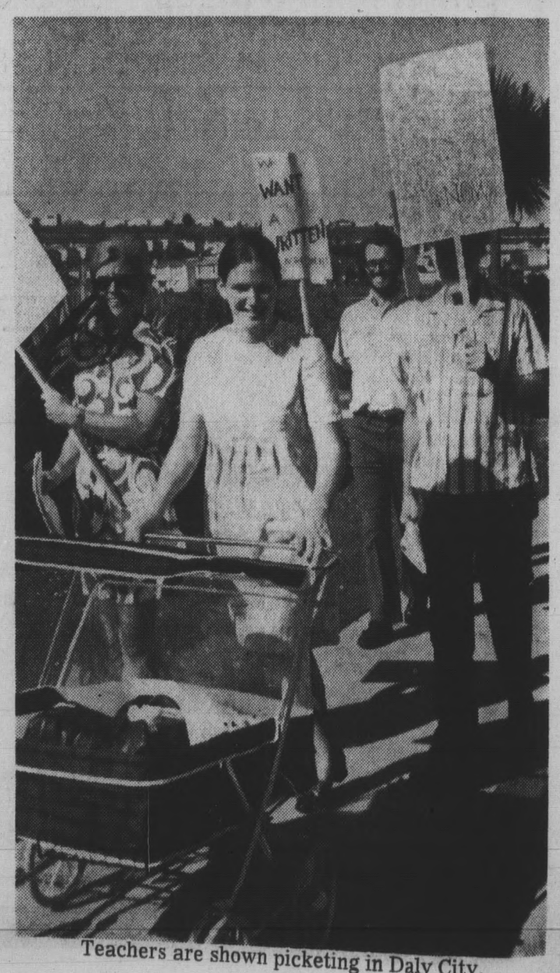
Now there is nothing wrong with our support of Chiang as a counterforce. But there is plenty wrong with our pretending he is something he isn't, and thereby becoming mired in a sense of obligation not appropriate to his true stature.

Similar illusions have enveloped our relationship with South Vietnam. We so passionately wanted our friends to be good, kind, reasonable, and decent that we created a Vietnamese fairy world that has no counterpart in real life.

In doing this we looked to leadership and not the people. We allowed the Diems, Thieus, Kys and Minhs to dominate our vision and seldom viewed the Vietnamese people as more than ciphers.

Attributing unreal qualities to such men we gave them strength they could not have attained without our support. Fortunately, this nation was not around to bolster King John, or he would have never arrived at Runnymede.

Democratic institutions may someday flourish in Southeast Asia. But time is needed, and these will only successfully evolve when based on the natural and indigenous habits of the people. Some years ago we assisted in imposing the sham of national plebiscites on South Vietnam.



Teachers are shown picketing in Daly City.

Fresh Fruit Preserves Featured

Gourmet Gingered Pears, Plum-Orange Conserve or luscious Plum Jam capture the goodness of fresh pears and plums.

The United States Department of Agriculture is spotlighting fresh pears and plums as Plentiful - Foods - to - Feature during September.

GINGER PEARS

1-3 cup finely chopped ginger root
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
4 lbs. fresh pears
5 cups sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
½ cup vinegar

Soak ginger in lemon juice. Wash, peel, quarter and core pears. Add sugar to pears and mix well to coat each piece. Cover and let stand overnight 6 to 8 hours. Stir lemon-soaked ginger into pears. Cook uncovered over medium-low heat until pears are tender and clear, about 1 hour, stirring frequently. Add lemon peel and vinegar 5 minutes before cooking time is finished. Pack in hot, sterilized jars, filling within ½-inch from top. Seal at once. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes. Makes 7 half-pints.

PLUM-ORANGE CONSERVE

2½ quarts chopped, pitted plums
¾ cup thinly sliced orange peel
2¾ cups chopped orange pulp
2 cups seedless raisins
6 cups sugar
2 cups broken pecans or other nuts

Combine plums, orange pulp and peel, raisins and sugar; slowly bring to boiling, stirring occasionally until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly almost to jellying point, about 15 to 20 minutes. As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Add nuts the last 5 minutes of cooking. Pour, boiling hot, into sterilized jars. Seal at once. Makes about 10 half pints.

PLUM JAM

2 quarts chopped tart plums (about 4 pounds)
6 cups sugar
1½ cups water
¼ cup lemon juice

Combine all ingredients; bring slowly to boiling, stirring occasionally until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly almost to jellying point, about 20 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Pour into sterilized jars. Seal at once. Makes about 4 pints.

Potatoes in 2 Versions for Parties

A terrific dish for a dinner party, Potatoes Magnifique features the creaminess and richness of pimiento cream cheese, dairy sour cream, and Cheddar cheese. For a savory, but lower calorie dish, try Potato Curry. Both will compliment roasts, steaks, barbecued meats and poultry.

GOLDEN POTATOES MAGNIFIQUE

6 medium potatoes
1 medium onion
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
2 3-oz. packages pimiento cream cheese
2 cups dairy sour cream
2 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese.

Boil potatoes in their jackets until tender. Cool, peel and slice. Place in buttered 2½ to 3-quart shallow baking dish. Grate onion over potatoes. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Mash cream cheese and blend with sour cream; spoon over potatoes. Top with grated Cheddar cheese. Bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven about 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and potatoes are piping hot. Serves 8.

POTATO CURRY

4 tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoons turmeric
2 pounds potatoes, peeled and quartered
1 cup boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon dried ground red peppers, optional
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Melt the butter in a skillet; stir in turmeric and add the potatoes. Cook over low heat 5 minutes, shaking the pan frequently. Add water, salt, and red peppers; cook 10 minutes longer, or until tender. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 4-6.

Ambrosia

Fresh grapefruit segments, well-drained canned fruit cocktail and flaked coconut make an ambrosia for dessert following a substantial dinner.

Height of Season for Melon Crop

In addition to the popular cantaloup, casaba, crenshaw, persian and honey dew melons are now in season reports the United States Department of Agriculture.

For the best flavor, allow the melons to ripen at room temperature; then refrigerate and use within a few days. Here are some other important melon buying tips from USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

CASABA—is a sweet, juicy melon, normally pumpkin-shaped with a very slight tendency to be pointed at the stem end. It is not netted like a cantaloup, but has shallow irregular furrows running from the stem end toward the blossom end. A ripe casaba has a buttery-yellow rind and a soft, creamy-white flesh. In contrast to other melons, a casaba has little fragrance or aroma when ripe.

CRENSHAW—has a smooth rind and pale orange flesh. This gold and green melon is rounded at the blossom end and tends to be pointed at the stem end. It is very perishable and usually ripened off the vine. When ripe, the rind should be a deep golden yellow, the melon should have a pleasant aroma, and the surface at the blossom end should yield slightly to moderate pressure of the tumb.

PERSIAN—resembles cantaloups but are more nearly round. Their rind is dark green and very evenly covered with a fine netting similar to that of cantaloup. The flesh is deep orange-pink, very thick and mildly sweet. A ripe persian melon has a pleasant odor and yields to light thumb pressure on the blossom end.

HONEYDEW — is large, bluntly oval in shape and usually smooth, but may be slightly netted. The rind is firm and ranges from creamy-white to creamy-yelloy, depending on the stage of ripeness. A ripe honeydew has a definite creamy-white color and a velvety feel to the rind. It also has a faint pleasant fragrance. The flesh is a delicate green, very juicy and sweet, with a fine grained texture.

Melons are easy to prepare and serve. Simply cut chilled melons into halves or sections and serve with fresh lemon or lime wedges. Serve melon this way for an "eye opener" in the morning, a first course for dinner, or a low calorie dessert.

Use ½-inch thick slices of melon in place of a bed of lettuce for salads. Top the melon slices with favorite chicken, fruit, or seafood salad, or a scoop of cottage cheese. Add cubes of melon or melon balls to fruit or gelatin salads. For dessert, serve melon wedges or cubes tpped with ice cream or our cream and brown sugar.

Try these summer melon ideas:

SUMMER MELON SALAD

2 6½-oz. cans tuna
1 orange, peeled and sectioned
¼ cup seedless grapes
¼ cup toasted, slivered almonds
½ cup mayonnaise
6 peeled melon slices, ½-inch thick
Lettuce

Combine all ingredients except melon slices and lettuce; chill. To serve, place melon slices on lettuce and top with tuna salad. Makes 6 servings.

MELON CHIFFON SALAD

1 cup orange juice
1½ cups melon, cut into chunks
1 6-oz. package orange-gelatin pineapple
½ cup whipping cream

Heat orange juice to boiling. Pour hot juice into glass container of blender; add gelatin. Cover and blend until gelatin is dissolved. Add melon chunks and cream and blend about 30 seconds or until fluffy. (If a blender is not available, mash melon before adding to gelatin mixture). Pour into 1-quart dessert mold or individual dishes. Chill. To serve, unmold and top with additional cream if desired. Makes 5 servings.

Deep Dish Sweet Treat

For a quick-and-easy deep-dish surprise, heat syrup from canned cling peach slices with cornstarch and a little sugar, stirring until thickened. Remove from heat. Add dash of lemon juice and few drops of almond extract. Combine with drained peaches and divide among serving dishes. Cool. Top wiht whipped cream and pre-baked pastry rounds.

Daly City Eyes Promotion Of Rapid Transit Center

By FRANK LAPIERRE

A new committee to promote development around the Bay Area Rapid Transit station in Daly City was proposed to the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

The proposal was prompted by a statement made by Westlake Shopping Center owner James Trevor asking. "What will BART do for business in Daly City?"

Attorney Paul Hupf, a director of the Chamber, suggested a committee be formed to give the BART project special attention, perhaps in the form of using it as a center to "sell" the city to prospective businesses.

The effect BART will have on existing retail businesses has been of concern to some members of the Chamber.

Director Don Halverson, of the PG&E, said his committee had discussed this for more than an hour at a recent meeting "and couldn't answer that question."

Likewise, the question whether the BART extension to International Airport will help or hurt business in the city was of concern to the directors.

It was agreed that Halverson's existing committee should look into the matter.

In other action the Chamber agreed that it might be in the best interest of its organization to retain a president for more than a year if he is doing an outstanding job.

Vince Merlo, director of the Chamber and president of the Mission Merchants Association, recommended that the Chamber not change presidents every year.

"Just when they get their feet on the ground and start to work we change to someone else," Merlo said.

A proposal that the Chamber's bylaws be amended to provide for retention of the president past the "normal" one year term was discarded after it was learned that the bylaws do not require this annual changeover.

Merlo commended president Sargen "for the fine job he is doing" and said he felt it was not in the interest of the Chamber to insist Sargen step down after one year service.

Progress along the Knowles Avenue corridor is on schedule, according to Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett.

Lycett informed the Chamber many houses — those in the most dilapidated condition — are being torn down to facilitate the street improvements planned for the area.

Out of the 46 structures that were to be destroyed or dismantled during the project, only eight will have to go to condemnation proceedures, Lycett said.

"It won't be long before the job is completed," Lycett said.

Part of the improvement project will the removal of overhead power lines by the PG&E.

Millbrae Planning Board Approves Cable-TV Facility

Approval of a repeater station for cable television, on a city water tank site, was granted by Millbrae's Planning Commission Monday.

The approval was given only after three votes, two hours of debate and objections from 20 or 25 neighbors in the hilltop area. Approval also must be given by the city council.

Tom Sansini was spokesman for the cable television firm which was brought into the community by city officials after a two-year effort to create the Peninsula's toughest Cable -TV law, and find a company that would live with that law.

Sansini said the relay station, smaller in size than a single story one-car garage, could only be built on the hilltop between La Prenda Drive and Skyline to provide adequate reception.

The small shed, he said, would be surrounded by a six-foot fence and topped with four antennas no larger than home TV antennas.

After construction, he said, maintenance men would visit the transistorized relay station once a month "on the average."

Neighbors objected, first, to a 150-foot tower which had previously been proposed for the site.

Sansini said plans for the tower had been abandoned months ago when it became technically unnecessary.

Citizens then concentrated their objections on the placement of a commercial structure in a residentially zoned area.

They said they would be annoyed by constant trips to the facility by servicemen and suggested that its landscaping and fencing would create an eyesore.

The neighbors challenged Sansini's testimony that the repeater station could not be placed elsewhere for technical reasons. Another water tank site, across Skyline Boulevard, they said, would be equally satisfactory.

Sansini said his technicians had carefully checked all the possible sites in Millbrae and that the other location was second best.

But second best was so bad, he said, "that we wouldn't touch that site. Reception would be so bad that we wouldn't have any customers."

He inferred that, unless the city provides an adequate relay station site, as guaranteed by its contract, Millbrae will find itself without cable television.

Afterlong argument, and after a thorough grilling of Sansini by planning commissioners, the voting began. A motion to delay failed. A motion to deny failed. The motion to approve passed, 3-2. Chairman Joseph Galante advised the spectators that they had ten days to appeal the action to the City Council.

Muttering citizens assured that the action will win another hearing at Council level.

Earlier, planners had agreed to hold until October 11 a proposed hearing on the Ryan Marocco plan for office buildings at Old Bayshore and Millbrae Avenue.

They also withheld action on an application to subdivide a duplex-triplex site at Ashton and Millbrae Avenues to allow for condominium use.

An application by former Planning Commissioner Donald Cahen, for a variance to allow his house to encroach within the five-foot sideyard set-back was denied.

Council Sets Hearing on Millbrae Spur

"This is your property," said Millbrae Mayor James O'Connor Monday while promising to hold a public hearing on proposals to use or dispose of the "Millbrae Spur" one-time highway right-of-way property.

The special session will be held Thursday, September 23, councilmen agreed after a half-hour discussion with about 20 citizens.

"This is one for the public to get involved in," the mayor said. Councilmen decided not to hire an engineer to make a topographic survey of the land, nor to suggest uses for parts of it until after the hearing.

Councilmen had been expected to act on an agreement to swap part of the spur land to the Green Hills Country Club. The agreement has been worked out by council members and city staffers over the past several months since the property was returned to the city by the state after being an unused highway development site for years.

Councilman Harold Purpus has been the chief council member on the Spur Committee, which has proposed developing the land as a strip of parks and open spaces, but which also has suggested selling portions of the property to finance the park development.

Committee actions have been publicly announced and reported during the past several months.

A second special hearing was set by the council for October 4 to discuss with the Planning Commission new plans for the former Tishman property on East Millbrae and Old Bayshore.

New owners, the Ryan-Marocco company of Burlingame, have been working with the city since April on plans to put a clump of sculptured town-house styled two-story office buildings, on the site.

Mayor O'Connor last night said this ran "exactly contradictory to what the council wanted on the property, a hotel or motel, as we decided last December."

Paul Monday, attorney for the property owners, asked that the Planning Commission be allowed to continue with its consideration of the new Planned Unit Development project, without waiting until after the joint-session with councilmen.

Mayor O'Connor told Monday that he had "been waiting seven and a half years," and was not "impressed by another three weeks."

Petition Asks for Hearings On Coastside Freeway Route

A petition asking that public hearings be reopened on the proposed new Devil's Slide bypass is being circulated by a group of Coastside residents for presentation to the County Board of Supervisors early next month.

The petition asks that the board support reopening of the hearings by the state Division of Highways. Many residents on the Coastside north of Half Moon Bay don't like the route the new freeway link would take from Devil's Slide south to Half Moon Bay Airport, although they are far from unanimous about what should be done instead.

A loosely-organized group of Montara and Moss Beach residents, perhaps 20, are circulating petitions, according to Mrs. Nancy Maule of Montara, unofficial chairman of the drive.

The petition is very general about its purpose, saying only that, "Although we concur with the need, we object to the route in concept and in particulars."

Alternatives suggested by residents range from minor modifications to abandonment of the project, Mrs. Maule said. One feature many have found objectionable is a proposed interchange at George Street, which would cut out the middle of Montara, Mrs. Maule said.

The plan now also includes a beach access road on a paper subdivision street called Kanoss Street, which would pass on the south side of Farallone View School.

This could become a major traffic artery and a hazard to children, Mrs. Maule noted.

As she sees the highway plan now, "Six lanes would cut diagonally through the community, taking a park, trees and homes," Mrs. Maule said. "I just hope we aren't too late."

The highway is in advanced planning. Mrs. Maule said she had been told by a county official the project would go to bid possibly next April.

A group in Pacifica and the Save Our Shoreline group in El Granada also is circulating the petition. The circulators are going door to door and petitions have been posted at Andy's Coastside Market in Moss Beach and Tom's Market in Montara.

All county residents may sign it, Mrs. Maule said, but "I'll be very happy if we get 1000."

ABC Yanks License

The Outer Limits bar which straddles the county line between San Francisco and Daly City has lost its liquor license.

The State Beverage Control Board said San Francisco Police Chief Alfred Nelder had pressed for revocation of the bar's license because of allegedly lewd acts by live entertainers being staged there.

In recent months residents of the area where the Outer Limits is located — across from the Cow Palace on Geneva Avenue — have demanded action be taken to close the bar, or at least take down what they consider "suggestive" signs adorning the outside of the premises.

While Daly City did make a move against the Outer Limits some months ago after meeting with the residents' group, the city decided to "wait and see" what action San Francisco would take.

Part of the controversial bar is in San Francisco, with the main entrance in Daly City. The signs on the front of the structure are also in Daly City.

ABC Director Edward J. Kirby charged some of the acts involved physical contact with patrons.

Kirby said the revocation order becomes effective on October 28.

Milton Harper, licensee for the Outer Limits, will have 40 days to appeal the action.

Some six months ago Harper charged he was a victim of a San Francisco police conspiracy to close him down. He filed suit for $4 million damages against several policemen.

Harper's attorney, Michael Kennedy, accused police of conducting 23 raids at the Outer Limits in an attempt to "harass" the owner and patrons.

Because of these raids Harper had to post some $70,000 in "exorbitant" bail, the attorney said.

500 Back Coast Priest

A petition defending the five-year-old marriage of defrocked Catholic priest Robert Duryea was signed Sunday by more than 500 parishioners at his former church in Pacifica.

The petition was circulated at St. Peter's Church and called on Catholic bishops throughout the world to rescind the priestly celibacy law.

Duryea was removed as pastor April 12 and excommunicated from the church by San Francisco Archbishop Joseph McGucken when the priest's marriage became known.

Duryea now lives in Los Gatos with his wife Luallan and their son, Paul, 5.

The petition was initiated by parish members Bob Verdeck and Al Tassi.

Duryea's successor, Rev. Arthur Davenport, did not sign the petition, but he did not stop it from being circulated around the church, a spokesman said.

The petition was to be circulated at the church again next Sunday. It read:

"To the bishops of the world ... We the undersigned have personally witnessed the devoted ministry of a married priest. We believe that priests should have the freedom of choice to marry or remain single, and that those priests who are now married, be invited back to the active ministry. We call upon the bishops of the world to act now!"

Though excommunicated after 25 years as a priest, Duryea still attends mass at Stanford University, where his brother is pastor of Catholic students.

San Bruno Plans to Spend Federal Money on Parks

A dream came true in San Bruno this week for lovers of parks.

City councilmen Monday found they had $46,600 on their hands, with which to improve city services—money they never thought they would get when they adopted the recent austerity city budget.

It was money from Washington—Emergency Economic Opportunity funds to provide employment for minority groups and to improve the environment.

Councilmen decided to hire two park-recreation rangers, three park maintenance men, and a clerk in the city clerk's office whose primary purpose would be to distribute food stamps.

Actually, it is a $51,827 program, with the city paying 10 per cent.

The park-recreation rangers would watch over City Park during times of heavy use. There had been growing complaints that City Park was no longer safe for a child, as well as growing vandalism, arguments over picnic reservations, etc.

According to job specifications recommended by the Parks and Recreation Commission and adopted by the City Council Monday, the ranger would be paid $3 per hour, would be employed "permanent part-time," have a high school diploma and two years of experience as a recreation leader or in related work, be able to maintain discipline, to operate police two-way radio, handle the public, and perform well in emergencies.

It would take several months to set up the new city clerk position, because of civil service procedures. The new clerk would work about half-time distributing stamps and half-time for City Clerk Carl Hultberg. Now, poor people must go to Daly City or San Mateo for their stamps.

S.S.F. Plans Office for Emergencies

South San Francisco's civil defense operation is soon to officially become an Office of Emergency Services.

Councilmen last week adopted a first reading on an ordinance relating to the new emergency organization and its functions.

The ordinance will create a disaster council, with the mayor as chairman. There also will be a director of emergency service — the city manager — and an assistant director, who will be the assistant city manager.

According to the wording of the ordinance, the declared purpose is to provide for the preparation and carrying out of plans for the protection of persons and property within the city in the event of an emergency.

An emergency could be conditions caused by such things as air pollution, fire, flood, storm, epidemic or earthquake.

This new ordinance, scheduled to become effective 30 days after final adoption, will automatically repeal the city's present civil defense and disaster ordinance.

Curbside Parking at Airport Banned—Possibly for Years

Curbside parking to pick up arriving friends or relatives at San Francisco International Airport, is almost non-existent during the current long-term construction project.

"I don't foresee any increase in curbside parking in the near future," said Airport Public Relations Director Ben Gaines, "at least not until after the new terminal building roadway is completed in 1972, and possibly not until the new North Terminal building is finished," some year later.

Meanwhile, he suggests, people driving to the airport to pick up others who are arriving on planes, will find it more convenient to park in the Central Garage, meet their friends or relatives, and then walk them back to the car.

As it is, drivers find very few spaces available for curbside parking /outside the terminal buildings.

With construction of the new upper roadway under way, trucks and machines take up much of the space formerly available for temporary parking, and the amount of available space can vary daily.

Most of the space is set aside for taxis and buses, according to the airport's contracts to allot space for these providers of mass transportation.

Airport Police are stationed in front of the terminal buildings, to keep traffic moving as best they can.

Peninsulans complain that Airport Officers are too ready to give tickets to those who stop in front of the buildings to pick up or discharge airline customers.

Airport aides comment that almost the entire terminal driveway area is posted, so that motorists should be aware of parking restrictions. The construction work is also obvious, so the need for restrictions should be evident.

Gaines said Airport Police will allow motorists to halt their cars and pick up passengers, whenever traffic conditions permit, and when the drivers use those portions of the curbside area which are set aside for such use.

Drivers who park their cars and leave them, even for a minute, he said, should expect to find parking tickets on the windshields, when they return.

Airport police comment that drivers who leave their car "just for a minute," often leave them with the doors open blocking traffic into the next lane, or with engines running, and often leave the apparently abandoned car for 15 or 20 minutes.

Gaines suggested that use of the Central Garage would relieve the time pressure on such drivers, and allow them to greet their family or friends in less of a rush.

Bank Promotes J. J. Reardon

James J. Reardon has been promoted to assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Millbrae Office.

Lucky Truck On New Job

Lucky Breweries has intensified its bottle-and-can redemption program through a "mobile recycling center" that visits 36 Bay Area shopping centers once every two weeks.

For the last seven months Lucky has bought back its empties at nine Bay Area Lucky beer distributorships and at the company brewery here.

President Peter T. Widdrington said the company placed the recycling center on the road as the result of hundreds of letters and telephone calls from ecology-minded customers who saved the brewer's empties, but found it difficult to transport them to their nearest Lucky distibutor.

"We decided the best way to solve this problem was to take the collections center to the people" Widdrington said. "As a result, our redemption volumes are rising rapidly."

The company and its distributors pay consumers 25 cents for every case of 24 Lucky bottles and 12 cents for every case of 24 Lucky cans.

Four Burned in SSF

Four members of a South San Francisco Samoan family were burned in a bedroom fire yesterday afternoon.

Assistant Fire Chief Al Brauns credited three neighbors with saving the lives of at least two small children by playing streams of water into the faming bedroom.

Listed as injured in the 4:30 p.m. blaze were:

Hubert Puletasi, 4, second degree burns over more than half of his body; Le Roy Puletasi, 3, second degree burns of feet and hands; Acania Puletasi, 2, second degree burns over 20 per cent of the body; Aneterea Puletasi, 67, first degree burns of the upper shoulder.

Brauns said they were taken first to Mary's Help Hospital for emergency treatment, except for Aneterea Puletasi, who was not admitted.

Commended by the fire chief for their roles were Bob Paoli of 60 Arlington, D. J. Molini of 56 Arlington and Pam Plapaduera of 82 Arlington.

Fire Capt. John Petroff dashed into the fiery bedroom at 62 Arlington without a mask to locate two children reported to be still in the hot, smoky house when firemen arrived.

He found Acania and Hubert huddled together and crying in a small clothes closet.

"I don't know how they escaped death," Brauns said.

Faamitsi Puletasi, who was in another part of the house when the fire started, led two children, including an uninjured girl, and Aneterea Puletasi to safety out a back door before rescuing his own son, LeRoy, from a third bedroom, Brauns said.

Damage was estimated at $4,000 to the structure and $2,000 to the contents.

The heat was so intense a telephone 15 to 20 feet away from where the blaze started was melted, Brauns said.

Boulevard Payment Left Up to Courts

It appears a lawsuit is inevitable between the city of South San Francisco and the L. C. Smith Construction Company over non-payment of $26,916.24.

The city held up on payment of this part of a November 3, 1969 contract for Westborough Boulevard improvement because of excessive delays by the contractor.

A claim has now been filed with the city for the money, over the signature of J. E. McVeigh, vice president of L. C. Smith Company.

Councilmen on September 8 denied a claim and referred it to City Attorney John Noonan, who commented that there appeared no way of solving the issue except through the courts.

The original contract price for work between Junipero Serra and Skyline Boulevards was $359,865.49. An additional $7,596.92 in change orders was approved, for a sub-total of $367,462.41.

Councilmen authorized payment of $340,546.17, but held back the $26,916.24 in penalty payments due the city because the firm did not meet its contract completion date.

S.S.F. Mishap Kills Worker

A 54-year-old worker was killed on Sept. 8 at a South San Francisco construction project when a 20-foot long 4 by 14-board being used to lift a precast concrete slab feel on him and crushed him.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Peninsula Hospital was Andrew Edwards of Hayward, an employe of the Carter Brothers Construction company of Milpitas.

According to coroner's investigator James Donovan, Edwards and Fred Korst of Cupertino were using a "strongback," a device consisting of two 20-foot long boards weighing 1000 pounds, to lift a concerte slab at a construction site at 500 Forbes Avenue. He reported a 60-ton crane was lifting the slab when a nylon sling slipped and the board fell back onto Edwards.

Fellow workers lifted the board off Edwards with a crane. His company notified his wife of his death, Donovan reported.

Girl Dies in Car Crash

Conception Marta Sanchez, five-year-old daughter of Manuel and Gladys Sanchez, 949 Hemlock, South San Francisco, died Sept. 6 in an automobile accident in Wolf Creek, Oregon.

Funeral services were conducted at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 13 from the chapel of Nauman and Lincoln mortuary, South San Francisco, followed by a 9 a.m. mass at All Souls Catholic Church. Interment was at Skylawn cemetery.

In addition to the parents, survivors include a brother Manuel Jr., and a sister, Marlene.

Missing GI Said Killed

Death of a South San Francisco man in the Southeast Asian war was announced Thursday by the Defense Department.

Sgt. Gregory A. Antunano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Antunano, 440 Constitution Way, South San Francisco is now listed as dead. He was previously said to be missing.

S.S.F. Calls For Bids on City Streets

South San Francisco councilmen have approved that city's 1971 street improvement project, authorizing a call for bids on the work.

Director of Public Works Lou Goss said eleven streets are in urgent need of repair and resurfacing, at an estimated cost of $130,000.

Goss said that if these streets are not resurfaced this year, they will require extensive maintenance.

The streets proposed for improvement this year are:

Alta Loma from Newman to Camaritas; Capay Circle from Arroyo to Arroyo; Northwood Drive from Hazelwood to Hazelwood; Hazelwood Drive from Rosewood to Maywood; Orange Avenue from El Camino Real to Memorial.

Also Orange Avenue from Circle Court to Grand; Victory Avenue from South Spruce to Maple, Park Way from Orange to Eucalyptus; Larch Avenue from Kearney to Highland; Mitchell Avenue from Airport to Harbor Way and Utah Avenue from Colma Creek to Littlefield.

Population Growth Slows To Trickle in S.M. County

The population flood which found 110,000 new residents pouring into San Mateo County during the 1960-1970 decade has ebbed to a trickle and may drop to almost nothing for the next four to five years, the County Planning Commission learned last week.

M. D. Boat, planning economist for the County Planning Department, said that projections of a few years ago indicating a county population of 800,000 by 1990 "will have to be reviewed very closely." The county's current population figure is 556,000.

Several factors are contributing to the decline in population growth, Boat states in his 16-page report. These include a diminishing supply of buildable land, a comparatively high cost of land and housing, the recession and lack of employment opportunities, high taxes, the tight home mortgage market, increasing levels of congestion and pollution, the declining birth rate and the growing national disenchantment with California living.

Boat reports that a detailed analysis of these factors and other possible causes would be a difficult undertaking. However, he noted that his study, in expanded form, will be incorporated into a General Plan revision background report to be released soon by the Regional Planning Committee.

The San Mateo County population trend is amazingly close to the national average, particularly in the declining birth rate. Boat notes that the under five population has declined by 15 per cent during the past decade.

"The small family pattern is becoming more common, that's the trend," he stated.

However, the 18 to 20 age group (post-war babies) has increased by 111 per cent, while the 35 to 44 age group (depression babies) has declined by 6 per cent. There has been an increase of anywhere from 10 to 63 per cent for other age groups.

The major factor which will influence the county's future growth, Boat stated, is employment opportunities. He noted that San Mateo will be competing with other counties in this respect, with housing, transportation and accessibility influencing the location of major employment centers.

Asked as to the county's future prospects as a tourist center, Boat said this will need some study and promotion.

"The potential for recreation is good, particularly on the coast," he stated, "but people (tourists) are not recreating there. They are going on to Monterey County."

Boat said that the image of San Mateo County as a "suburb" of single-family residences is changing rapidly. Apartment units now account for 29 per cent of the housing, and the proportion is increasing. Of the new housing units added in the 1960-1970 decade, 63 per cent were apartment units.

Changes in both the number and composition of the population are occurring throughout the county (63 per cent gain in Caucasian residents, 29 per cent gain in non-white residents), and the overall effect is of a "maturing" and "urbanizing" population, Boat stated.

"Planning for this type of change requires a different emphasis than was required in the past 20 years of rapid growth," he concluded.

AND SAVE UP TO A YEAR'S DEPRECIATION

Here's How To Save: Come in to Jim Burney's Dodge Center. Tell the salesman you want to see the dealer's cost label on the new '71 Dodge of your choice. Add $99, plus service and that's all you'll pay during our big year-end sale. We have 200 new '71's to choose from.

JUST GIVE US A SMALL PROFIT OF $99.

DON'T BE CONFUSED ABOUT THE PRICE FREEZE . . . THE NEW '72 MODELS WILL NOT BE PRICED AT THE SAME LOW PRICE AS THE CLOSE-OUT MODEL '71's.

Freeze Is Eased on Cars

WASHINGTON — (AP) —The Cost of Living Council ruled yesterday that automobile dealers may sell their 1972 models at the price for which 1971 models sold when they were first introduced.

This figure may be above what 1971 models were bringing when the price was frozen Aug. 15.

The council approved also seasonal increases in hotel and motel rates.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said the ruling on automobiles was justified.

Seasonal Patterns

A council spokesman insisted the ruling on automobile prices does not constitute approval of any price increase — although he conceded prices on 1971 models at the time of the freeze was imposed probably were lower than they were a year earlier.

He said the early-1971 price levels still would be below prices projected for the 1972 models before the price freeze was declared.

Documentation

Arnold R. Weber, executive director of the council, said actions on both autos and hotels were taken because "prices and wages associated with a larger number of products and industries follow distinct seasonal patterns.

He said hotels and motels that normally increase their rate during the Labor Day holiday, for example, will be allowed to charge the 1970 holiday rate or the price in effect when Nixon's freeze order was installed Aug. 14.

Weber said automobile manufacturers will be able to price their 1972 models at the introductory price of the 1971 cars, if they so choose.

"To qualify, prices and wages must show a distinct fluctuation at a specific, identifiable point in time."

Willard Finds Speed in Dieting

By JACK BLUTH

Staying on top is tougher than getting there.

That's a time-worn sports cliche, but it rings refreshingly sound to Ken Willard.

To 49ers veteran running back recites the truism as though he coined it because he feels it applies to himself as well as the 49ers — who won the National Football League Western Division championship last season.

It marked the Prospectors first division title in their 25-year history. And to accomplish it they forged their best win-loss record since joining the National Football League in 1950.

Contributing much to that success were the punishing power plunges of Willard, the club's perennial leading ground gainer. But satisfied, Willard wasn't.

"I felt I was losing something," said the 28-year-old veteran of six pro football wars. "And each person has to find his own way to stay on top."

Willard felt he was losing some of the quickness and agility so necessary for "reading" his assignments — that is, running to daylight. So he came to camp 15 pounds lighter than last season, hoping to improve that phase of his game. And after six pre-season battles, he's satisfied that he has accomplished his goal.

"I'm quicker now," he said. "There's no doubt about it. I pick up my feet faster. And I have the energy to do things that I couldn't do before. Like, it's easier for me to spin; I can do it natrually now. I've taken some licks this year that would have floored me last year."

Willard's 3.3 average per carry last year represented the toughest yardage earned by an NFL running back. That's because the 49ers lacked the outside running threat. It allowed opponents to stack the middle, where Willard is asked to grind out the yardage.

Hopefully, the yardage will come easier in that area this season, now that the 49ers have found an outside running threat. The speedburner is Vic Washington, an import from Canada who was one of the nation's top running backs at Wyoming University four years ago. Washington cuts the corner with uncanny deft.

At 215 pounds (Willard says he gets mad at himself if he tips the scales over 216 pounds before a game), Willard still retains the power to challenge the defense when the obvious short yardage situation comes up and there is no daylight to run to.

"The big thing about losing that weight," said the articulate running back who once contemplated a career in politics, "is that I haven't lost that much weight in my legs. They're the same size muscular-wise. And I fell stronger. I don't feel like I'm trapped. Good backs, even if they pick the wrong hole, will do something."

And Willard figures he had better do something to stay on top.

Fans Overlook Stats— Raiders Were the Best

By RON REID

A greasy thumbprint on a 4.0 transcript . . . The Mona Lisa with Acne . . . An Oscar with a dented belly . . . Miss America with goiter . . . A $500 suit with mustard on the sleeve.

Those are the kind of distorted images conjured up by the name, "The Oakland Raiders", a pro football team whose excellence has been blemished by an inopportune defeat, now four times in succession.

Over the last four years, the Oakland Raiders have been the best team in professional football, if a won-loss record is your sole criterion. During that period, the Raiders have captured four straight division titles and have compiled a 45-8-3 record unmatched by any other NFL foe.

But few people consider that fact, if indeed, they remember it, when the TV sets are tuned in to the Super Bowl in January. The one time the Raiders made the screen under such circumstances, in 1967, they lost to the Green Bay Packers. On three other occasions, the eventual Super Bowl champion was a team that had beaten the Raiders two weeks earlier.

In 1968, the Raiders lost the AFL title to the New York Jets, who went on to win the Super Bowl.

In 1969, the Raiders lost to Kansas City, who went on to win the Super Bowl.

In 1970, the Raiders lost to Baltimore, who went on etc. . .

If the repetition has become tiresome for the fans, it is nothing less than repugnant for the Raiders themselves, who this year, may write an end to their history of near-misses.

Offensively, the Raiders have strengthened themselves through trades designed to make the world safer for quarterback Daryle Lamonica — along with alleviating the necessity for a weekly miracle from George Blanda, who is celebrating his 44th birthday today.

In the last two title games the Raiders lost, Lamonica suffered an injury. Whether pass protection was responsible or not, Al Davis went out and got himself a pair of tackles strong enough to protect Daryle during a Russian invasion.

They are 6-5, 290-pound Bob Brown, obtained from the Rams for Harry Schuh and the since-retired Kent McLoughen, and Ron Mix, the nine-time all-leaguer from San Diego.

While Lamonica was hurt through most of the pre-season games (through a freak injury while warming up) southpaw Ken Stabler progressed sufficiently as a quarterback to erase any big worry about the position. The Raiders also came up with a plum in the draft when they picked USC's Clarence Davis, who may be a starter at running back before the season ends.

But the club that has been known for an explosive offense born of the bomb hasn't escaped without some problems. Fullback Hewritt Dixon, the AFC's second-leading rusher last year, suffered a knee injury in the second exhibition game and may not be ready until late October.

A bigger source of trouble could be the loss of Warren Wells, now serving a jail sentence for parole violation. Wells, in contrast to his dubious behavior off the field, is one of the finest game-breaking receivers in pro football and a man who will not easily be replaced, even by the talented Rod Sherman.

"It's hard to say how a team will react to this sort of thing," one Raider spokes-

Nolan Claims 49ers Better

By JACK BLUTH

The 49ers came up one win short of going to the Super Bowl last year, capturing their first division championship in 25 years.

To accomplish that they forged a 10-3-1 record, their best in history.

Can they go all the way this year?

Coach Dick Nolan doesn't make predictions, but he says, "We have every reason to believe that we are at least as good as we were last year and have expectations that we might be better."

The 49ers should be favored in the Western Division of the NFC — the division which embraces Atlanta, Los Angeles and New Orleans. They won it last year, and while two of their three defeats last season were administered by Atlanta and Los Angeles, they also beat those teams each once.

Nolan looks for Atlanta to be much improved this year. Los Angeles' defense looks as strong as last year, but the offense isn't any better. New Orleans appears to be outclasses.

The 49ers could run into trouble outside the division. Their regular season schedule looms tough. It includes Detroit and Minnesota, the two best teams in the "Black and Blue" division, and Kansas City, the team that figures to give the Oakland Raiders a battle for the AFC's Western Division championship.

Detroit beat the 49ers last year. Minnesota lost to them in the division title playoff game, but the Vikings should be greatly improved offensively with the acquisition of quarterback Norm Snead.

So the 49ers may have to be an improved team to meet the competition. And the area where they can stand it most is in the running game. Lack of speed gave the 49ers a weak ground attack last year. Nolan said he hoped to correct that this year—to make the 49ers' running game equal to its passing attack. And he may have done that — if preseason performance is any indication.

The chaps who could be just the tonic the 49ers need is Vic Washington, the former Wyoming star who played three years of pro football in Canada. He has speed to cut the corner and moves to change his route if there is no corner to cut. That's what the 49ers must have to loosen up the middle for the power plunges of Ken Willard who too often last season ran into a stacked defense.

Washington can also block and catch passes, so he might end up displacing Doug Cunningham as Willard's running mate.

The 49ers could also use improved punting and have it in Jim McCann, the Arizona State rookie who was kicking them long and high in pre-season games until he was injured.

It may take all of that improvement — plus the same performance by John Brodie, Gene Washington, Bruce Taylor, a more matured defense, an offense that gave Brodie the best protection in pro football history and another injury-free season for Nolan's expectations to pan out. And for the 49ers to go all the way in 1971.

Tollner Is Determined: CSM No Bridesmaid

Two-time bridesmaid College of San Mateo has greater ambitions in the 1971 Golden Gate Conference football campaign.

Although the Bulldogs have a new head man at the helm in Ted Tollner as they begin their 50th year of gridiron competition and they return only 11 lettermen from last year's 7-1-1 team, there's good reason for the optimism on the hilltop.

Tollner and chief assistant Steve Shafer have gleaned many of the top prep stars from the three peninsula leagues and picked-up a "lucky seven" transfers who already possess a valuable year of senior college experience.

"Our main problem is that we lack game experience together," Tollner points out.

But that's a familiar situation for the community college coach — who has a player for at the most two years. And both Tollner and Shafer have had plenty of experience during three years as assistants to Bill Dickey, now offensive line coach at Stanford.

Together they fashioned a 15-10-1 record, recovering from a dismal 1-7-1 start to chase Chabot down to the wire in the league title race the past two seasons.

Former Woodside coach Tollner continues to take charge of the offense and Shafer the defense in the platoon set-up. Gerry Fisher, an All-GGC quarterback at Chabot in 1963 and former assistant at Cal-State Hayward, assumes Dickey's former line responsibilities.

Shafer calls his 1971 defense "potentially better than last year." And in 1970 the Bulldogs were the stingiest team in the league. They allowed opponents just 248 yards a game while grinding out 387 themselves.

Only three 1970 regulars return — offensive tackle Bob Minklein (6-2, 220) from Mills plus defensive heroes guard Dan Meschi (6-0, 225) of Capuchino and safety Tom Davenport (5-10, 150) from Woodside. Davenport earned All-GGC honors last season when Bulldog flankerback Tom Scott (now at Washington) shared Player of the Year honors with Chabot's Dennis Bragonier (currently patrolling the Stanford secondary).

Five others who saw some starting action for the Bulldogs as injury replacements are also back.

Stingers Mark Bagileo (6-0, 185) from Mills and Marc Lackner (5-11, 165) of El Camino filled in admirably at the deep linebacker spots last season when Neil Kuersten and John Levi were injured.

Placekicker Alex Addy (5-8, 190) started on offense at guard late in the season, as did running backs Marc Shea from Mills and Dan Cozart. The latter pair ranked 14th and 16th respectively in league rushing with respectable averages of 5.5 (48-265) and 4.6 (55-249).

Addy, a San Carlos resident who was a prep kicking sensation in North Tonawanda, N.Y., ranked thid among GGC kick-scorers last season with 18 conversions and a pair of field goals. Washington State transfer Mike Doyle (6-0, 240) from Menlo-Atherton also has sights on Addy's right guard spot, however.

Among the dozen first team all-leaguers entering CSM rom peninsula high schools this fall were four who garnered Back of the Year recognition.

They include the leading Bay Area prep rusher of 1970, Kevin O'Donnell (5-10, 165). At San Mateo High he gained 1555 yards to earn Mid-Peninsula League offensive Back of the Year laurels.

Sequoia grad Cozart (5-8, 185) has been sidelined with an ankle injury since he opening of practice two weeks ago. But Tollner expects him to be ready to go in the Bulldog's opener against visiting San Joaquin Delta Saturday afternoon.

But, meanwhile. All-MPL fullback Rob Dean (6-0, 190) from Hillsdale has been running well, paired with the (6-0, 195) Shea. And O'Donnel has been showing flashes of his ability, according to Tollner.

With the running back situation in such good shape, three other Backs of the Year will be defensive specialists for the Bulldogs — North Peninsula defensive choice Al Spitzer (6-1, 180) from El Camino, MPL outstanding defender Ed Kertel (6-0, 190) from Hillsdale, and the South Peninsula Athletic League's Jerry Holland (5-11, 210).

Holland, the SPAL's leading scorer at Carlmont, plus All-SPAL Burt Blackwell (5-10, 200) from Menlo-Atherton and Oregon State transfer Jim Ritchey

Can Cal Find the Motivation?

By CHRIS STAVE

If Cal is unable to face the problem of motivation, maybe no one will ever know just how good the 1971 team is.

It's impossible to calculate how badly Bear gridders will want to win when they know from the start that they have been denied a Rose Bowl appearance.

Cal's suspension by the NCAA has been talked to death, but the fact remains that a respite is unlikely. Cal could win the rest of its games and still earn pride.

Coach Ray Willsey doesn't wonder publicly whether his players can still do well without a New Years plum to shoot for.

"The team has accepted it in a very mature manner so far," he says. "We don't ever have that many definate goals, anyway. We don't dangle a carrot in front of our players and offer them a reward. You play football because you enjoy playing the game, that's all."

It would be nice if matters were that simple. But these days, it isn't easy getting up a fever pitch for every game — and the way the PAC-8 is this year, the Bears' best will be required almost every weekend.

It's easy enough to get up for UCLA or USC; there's enough antagonism for the Southland schools to last into the middle of the next century. And the Big Game with Stanford is always a major war. Cal played its best games against those three schools last year, winning two and losing the other on an official's mistake.

But Cal has always had trouble motivating itself for other games with the likes of Oregon State, Oregon and Washington. Last year the Bears were 1-2 against those teams, and probably should have won them all. This year none of them are pushovers, and the Bears have even less motivation than last year.

It's a pity, really. This could be Willsey's best team ever. He has carefully built up the team through strong recruiting until he has something Old Blues haven't seen in a long time — depth, and speed at the skill positions.

The offensive line is solid. Running backs Isaac Curtis and Tim Todd are good, and so are their backups. The Bears have two quarterbacks to choose from in Reed Chastang and Jay Cruze.

The Pros Don't Show Jackie Anything

By RON REID

By all the laws that dictate such relationships, Stanford's Jackie Brown and the National Football League are tailor-made for each other — or so it would seem.

Brown, the Yakima-bred running back, has performed with uncommon and durable versatility in two superb seasons at Stanford, where he has shown a talent not only for running with the football, but for catching it as well. He also blocks with a ferocious intensity that has the pro scouts drooling.

Last season as a junior, Jackie rushed for 568 yards (an average of 4.5 yards per carry) and ranked as the Indians' third-best receiver with 31 receptions for 375 yards. Before he scored two touchdowns in Stanford's 27-17 Rose Bowl victory over Ohio State, he had racked up an even 50 points — one dozen of which came against USC.

The NFL, you may have noticed, has room among its franchises for such versatile fellows, much the same as such versatile fellows have room in their wallets for the NFL's money. So you might expect that Brown's progression to the pro league is inevitable.

Jackie, however, hardly rates as your average All-America candidate and by this time next year, may be known as the collegian who dodged the NFL draft. For the moment, if not the future, he just isn't interested.

"Professional football just doesn't show me anything," Brown said earlier this season when his teammates had elected him a Stanford tri-Captain along with linebacker Jeff Siemon and quarterback Don Bunce.

"Taking the punishment those running backs take is not for me," he said. "It might make a difference if I got the money (Jim) Plunkett got, but the others don't make that much."

Indeed, it is questionable whether any amount of money, or football itself, could long continue to be a motivating factor in the life of the serious-thinking halfback. In Brown's table of values, there are too many other priorities.

Even in the throes of the cur-

Jackie also realizes and aprent season, the classroom may rank as No. 1. A history major, Brown holds better than a "B" average and spent part of his summer working on a research project in Argentina, where his job of determining the Argentine's self-image was made difficult by that nation's penchant for changing governments overnight.

Jackie also realizes and appreciates his responsibilities to the black community and, as the second black captain in Stanford's football history, is justifiably proud of the honor.

"I like to think I've tried to do my best and played up to my potential," he said, "and that's what my teammates saw in me when they elected me captain. I hope it will be a constructive impression for the community because there's been too much destructive action."

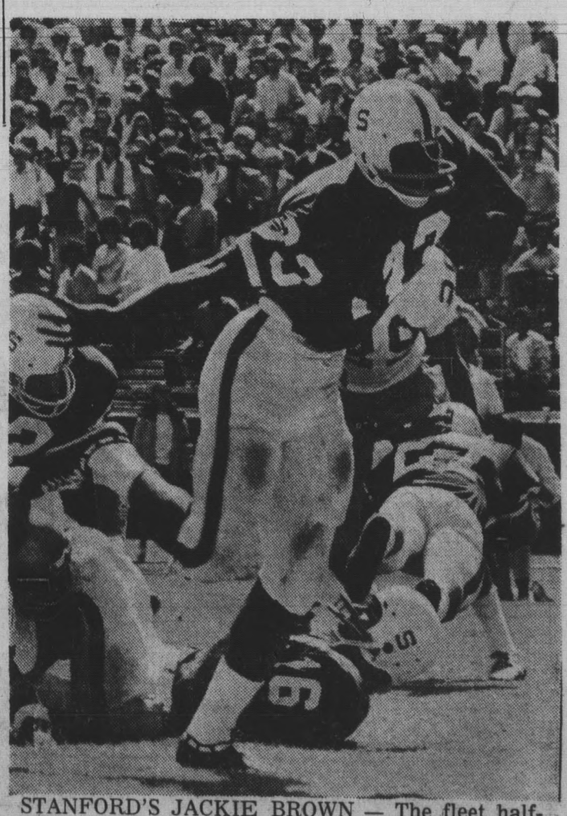
With that philosophic bent, Jackie doesn't sound sacrilegious when he puts down the hoopla surrounding the Rose Bowl.

"I wouldn't mind going back," he said, "but I would gladly skip the two or three weeks leading up to the game. The game was okay, but everything leading up to it was bad. Doing two-a-days in the rain at Long Beach for two weeks was no picnic."

"Reports said we lolled around going through pass drills in sweats, but that wasn't true. It was just like starting off Fall practice anew."

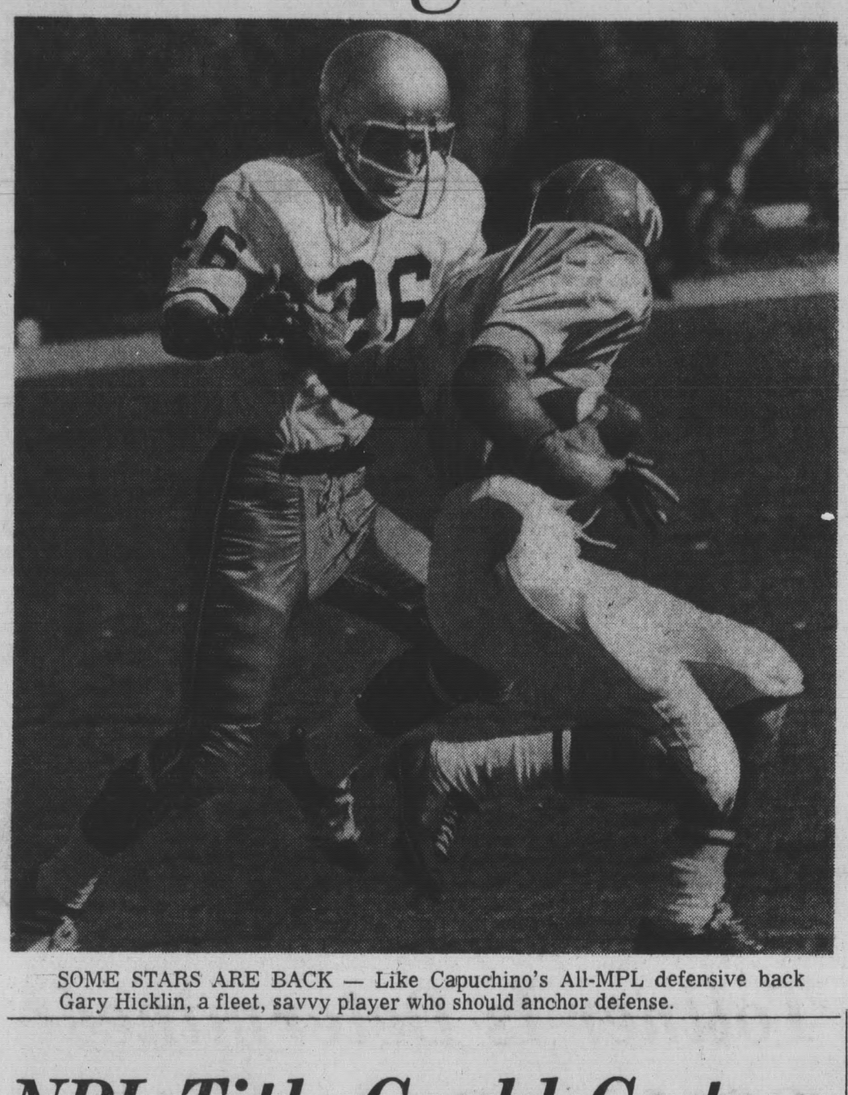
Jackie Brown, however, will be a force for Stanford enemies to reckon with this season. He is not the kind of athlete to rest on past laurels and says, "I still have another good year in me. I'll continue to do my best."

More of the same is likely to follow, but you'd better see it happen this year. It may be the last one of Jackie's career.



STANFORD'S JACKIE BROWN — The fleet halfback may be playing his final year of football. . . .

Old Knights Gone—MPL Title Up for Grabs



SOME STARS ARE BACK — Like Capuchino's All-MPL defensive back Gary Hicklin, a fleet, savvy player who should anchor defense.

The Main Thing Is Experience

Now that much of the all-powerful Hillsdale squad is away, the rest of the Mid-Peninsula League can play.

Hillsdale completely dominated the MPL last year, but they did it with seniors, and the seniors are gone —including the entire starting backfield.

Hillsdale could still field a good team, but the Knights might get a stiff challenge this year from almost anyone, especially Crestmoor and Burlingame, two squads loaded with experienced players.

Hillsdale lost 14 seniors in all. Right now coach Ron Anderson's biggest problem is finding a quarterback. He could go with Rory MacArthur (6-0, 160), who piloted last year's supertough frosh-soph squad, or Ron Doss (6-0, 160), who could double at halfback.

Anderson has good material to fill the rest of the backfield slots — tailback-defensive back Chuck Lucas (6-1, 185) and Mike Adams (5-10, 150) who was MVP for the frosh-soph last year. And All-MPL receiver-defensive back Scott McWhirter will be back.

Skip House (6-4, 210) and Randy McCoy (5-11, 225) form the nucleus of what could be a tough line.

"We've heard from a lot of people that Hillsdale's being counted out," Anderson says, "but they're making a big mistake. The biggest thing we've got going for us now is that we've been 16-2 over the past two seasons and our players know what it feels like to win."

Crestmoor, one-time league doormat, is ready to abandon that position with a vengeance. Coach Johnny Browne's Falcons tasted victory last year and liked it. 14 lettermen return and some of them have good size.

Browne has plenty of backfield talent, starting with senior quarterback Jim Jarvis (6-2, 175) who is both a good thrower and a good runner. Halfback George Ama (5-8, 170) is returning. Jarvis should have good targets in tight end Marty Lepo (6-2, 200) and split end Syd School (6-3, 180).

The line could be the biggest in the league. Emmett McCourt (6-8, 225) missed some of last year with a broken hand, but he's ready now. John King (6-5, 240) is a good prospect at tackle. The two guards, Kevin Ruane (6-0, 180) and Bruce Patterson (5-10, 185) are both lettermen. The biggest bugaboos that remain for the Falcons are a lack of depth and inexperience in the defensive backfield.

Burlingame is another contingent with experience. Clark Anderson (5-9, 165) is starting his third year as varsity quarterback. He's fast and a good passer. Another back that coach Bob Booker has high hopes for is track hurdler Andy Kolesnikov (6-2, 198), who combines speed and strength.

The Panthers only lost one man from the offensive line, which is anchored by Mark Scoggin (5-10, 224). Scoggin doubles at linebacker. Another third year starter is linebacker Greg Houts (5-8, 165).

Buz Williams' San Mateo Bearcats were hit hard by graduation, losing most of the backfield, some good linemen, and much of the secondary. And this year's San Mateo team will be small.

"Experience is sadly lacking," Williams says, "But our kids have a great deal of skill and speed. We've never been a very big team. But you've really got to have speed in high school football, and we have plenty of that."

San Mateo has one superplayer in All-MPL linebacker Dale Curry (6-1, 215), a champion wrestler who should also play fullback or halfback much of the time.

NPL Title Could Go to a Team With Little Offense

By JERRY LITTRELL

In a year that will see 40-plus point games as the rule, it seems almost a paradox that the winner of the North Peninsula League football chase this season will be a team that may have the toughest time scoring.

When the El Camino High School Colts last year broke the decade-long stranglehold South San Francisco had maintained on the league crown, it marked the first time in NPL history that neither a Warrior a Westmoor Ram eleven had copped title honors.

And if you believe league coaches (if you can't, who can you believe?) the Colts, sporting a massive defense with diabolic animalistic tendencies, should repeat as league champs in 1971.

For a change, almost every NPL team has a proven quarterback, and the majority have experience at halfback.

El Camino has no experience at quarterback, and two running backs transferred away during the summer. One went to Mexico and, since coach Tom McCormick is bereft of a helicopter, there isn't much chance he will return in time.

Another went to San Francisco, the misguided soul. But the Colt line could even make a star out of a waterboy or manager.

Trying out at quarterback are Jim Stary, flanked by Castellanos, an able junior with a strong arm, and Rich Bergamasschi.

South City, which lost the title without losing a game last season, playing two 0-0 ties in crucials against the Colts and Rams, have veteran quarterback Bob Bachtold and halfbacks Hank Love and Tom Crumpton. There may be more size in the Warrior backfield than in the line, as the usually mammoth SSFers will have to rely on smaller and quicker people up front.

Tackle Rich Mahoney (6-0, 180) and guard Dorr Shimamoto (5-10, 160) appear to be the Warrior mainstays.

Westmoor has also got experience in the backfield, with quarterback Brad Kearns and halfbacks Tom Price and Nick LeBlanc operating the first unit. The linemen are smaller than usual, but Ray Schnapp (an appropriate monicker for a center), guard Jim Woodworth, tackles Dave Johnson and Bob McLeannan all were starters last year, and could add enough savvy to make the Ram line go.

Half Moon Bay, which will be the surprise team of the year, has an excellent thrower in Frankie Reyes, and both speed and power runners in veterans Jeff Yerian and Ron Stockman. They also have 296-pound All-NPL tackle Scott Tolbert back, and can draw from a sophomore team that took the NPL title last year.

Terra Nova will also throw, behind quarterback John Racanelli. The Tigers have veterans Steve Garrison and Louis Sanchez to run with flanker Jon Rierwitz as one of the league's better receivers.

There is still another top quarterback left in all-NPLer Chinto Fonseca of Jefferson. If the Indian line can give Fonseca a moment or two, tight end Gary Lindsey and fleet halfbacks Anthony Aaron and Willie Cassilas could do damage. The key is pass blocking.

Even Oceana, not considered a title contender, has senior thrower Desi Chavez back.

Serramonte had a quarterback returning in Ken Urudtia, but he transferred to Mills, so the Regents will go with soph Jesse Torres and a lineup that features only three seniors. Good luck, Jack Thur.

Information Director To Cover County JCs

San Mateo County continues to play an important role in the state's junior (or community) college sports picture.

The county has four of the state's 90 JCs, competing in three of California's 12 JC conferences.

Last year Canada won state championships in both soccer and baseball and a league crown in tennis. CSM, was a state runner-up in water polo, and won league crowns in cross-country and baseball. And Menlo was second in the state golf tourney.

This season Fred Baer, director of the San Mateo-based JC Athletic Bureau—a statewide information agency—will coordinate community college coverage for The Times.

Fred will start with comprehensive coverage of the Bulldog football team and all CSM activity in the Golden Gate Conference; also Canada and Skyline Colleges in the Camino Norte Conference, plus Menlo and the Coast Conference.

Pads Won't Repeat '70

By STEVE JOHNSON

Jess Freitas, head coach at Serra High School, may want to forget what happened to his team in 1970.

Last year, after three excellent seasons of football which netted two West Catholic Athletic League titles and an overall record of 26-3, the Padres found out how the other guy feels.

The result was a 4-5 season and fifth place in the WCAL. But if opponents are expecting that kind of year again, they could be in for a surprise.

Freitas and his coaching staff welcome back a total of 16 returning lettermen, many of them last year's starters. It is with this experience the Padres hope to improve previously weak areas. Like offense.

Offense is something Serra did not have in over-abundance in 1970. Sometimes it was non-existent. To change this, Serra will need a good year from quarterback Jeff Linton (5-11, 185). Linton, an excellent passer, was injured much of last season, and with him went a lot of the Padres' firepower.

Freitas is hoping the same thing won't happen this time, and figures if his junior signal-caller can stay healthy, Serra will be able to put some points on the board.

Senior Greg Jackson (5-10, 170), who did much of the running last year, heads up the list of ball-carriers. Also expected to see a lot of action are halfback Lee Backstrom, a speedster, and a promising junior, Richard Nelson (6-0, 170).

Top receivers should be seniors Bob Silvestri and Vince Scherba, and another junior, Jim Biscoe (5-8, 170), considered a constant deep threat. All have experience from last year.

The offensive line has good size, mobility, and is loaded with veterans. Anchoring this unit will be a pair of fine guards, Brian McQuaid (190) and Scott McInerney (195), with center Mark Vorsatz (195).

For the past couple of seasons, Serra has become known for its tremendously strong defenses. This year appears to follow in the same pattern, especially with a line that only lost one starter from a unit that handed out plenty of violence as it was.

Russ Nicolopulos (6-0, 205), Tim McKeon (5-11, 190) and Dennis Mays (6-3, 200), form the core of what line coach Chuck Billings describes as a "bunch that really likes to hit and gang tackle."

Playing linebacker and keying the defense will be a 6-2, 202 junior Vince Temmaro; strong, quick, a player who "just punishes people", according to coaches.

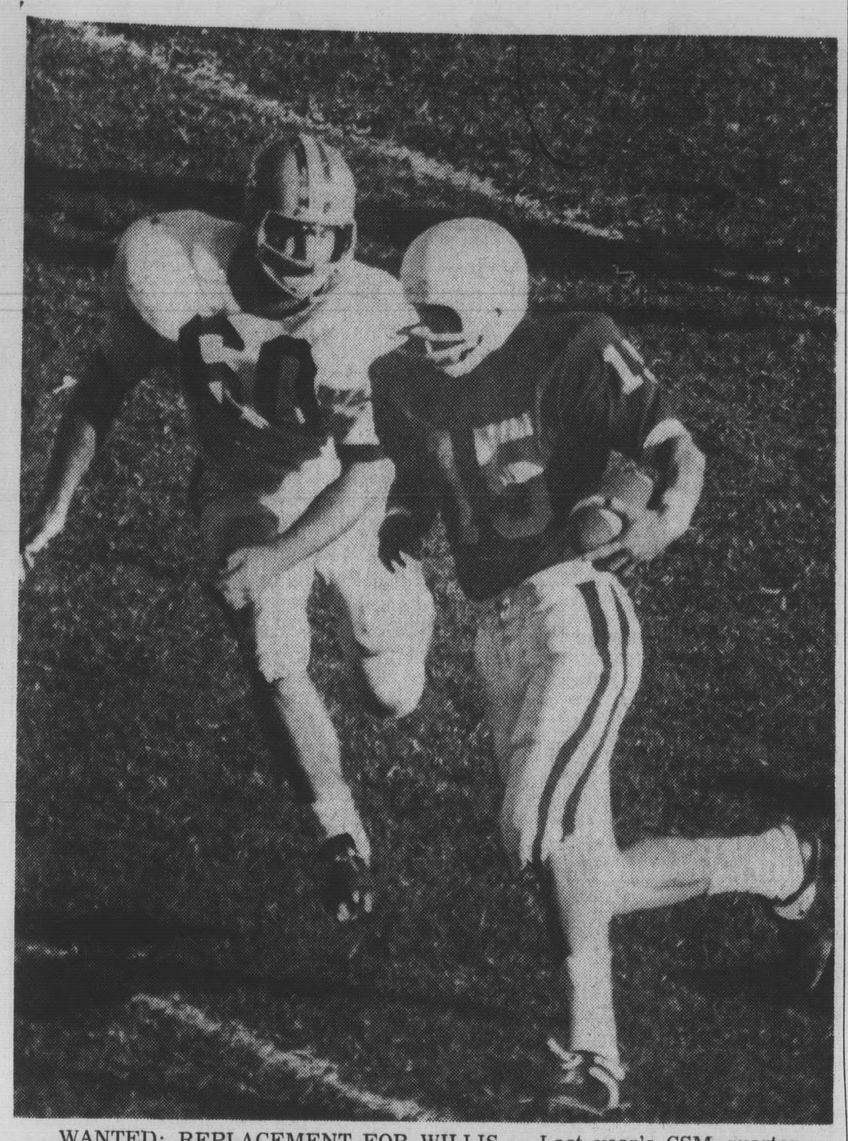
The secondary also looks to be tough, with veteran cornerbacks John Flaherty and Steve Scott (both around 5-11, 165) whom Freitas calls, "two of the best in the league, bar none."

As far as the WCAL itself goes, annually one of the toughest and most competitive leagues around, most of the pre-season praise is going todef ending champion Bellarmine and San Francisco powerhouse St. Ignatius. At this point, nobody really seems to be counting Serra out, but then again nobody seems to be figuring them as that much of a threat, either.

At least not yet. Of his own team's chances, Freitas had this to offer, "We're hoping for a better finish than we had last year."

Starting off on only an eight game schedule this year, commencing with Woodside on the 17th, Freitas has one main worry besides getting his team together.

And that is depth. "Injuries could really hurt us this year," he says, but also adds that, "with a little luck, we're going to cause a lot of headaches."



WANTED: REPLACEMENT FOR WILLIS —Last year's CSM quarterback, Wayne Willis (15) has left to toil at University of Pacific. Only 11 lettermen return to CSM to help first-year coach Ted Tollner in his quest for a Golden Gate Conference grid title in 1971. There are three new candidates for the quarterback spot Willis left.

Tollner Has a Problem; Needs a Field General

In all, Shafer has seven top candidates for three linebacker spots and a like number contending for two stinger posts. Newcomers Vince Howard (6-1, 187) and Gary Dallamiaggioria (5-7, 165), both from El Camino, are giving veterans Leo Bernardini (5-8, 195) from South San Francisco and Joe Feehan (6-2, 200) of Serra the competition at the other 'backer posts.

Meanwhile Kertel is fairly well set at the right corner spot as a replacement for All-GGC Phil Andre, now at Washington. Paul Maples (6-2, 187), transfer from Oregon State, is battling Ernest Spencer (5-10, 155) of Ravenswood for the other corner post.

While sprinter Spencer is the fastest man on the team, Shafer claims 22-year-old tackle Ed Green (6-5, 270) as the biggest man and fastest player for his size he's had at CSM.

The El Camino grad was injured most of last year. But the big man now has to contend with veteran John Gradwohl (6-2, 225) from Jefferson and Washinton State transfer Eric Bell (6-2, 210) of Carlmont as CSM will have good size no matter who's in the lineup.

Another ex-Carlmont prep, Rich Nomini (6-1, 210) comes home after a season at Western Colorado to complement Meschi at defensive guard.

Although he has a wealth of talented backs on hand, Tollner has one serious problem — quarterback.

With CSM record breaker Wayne Willis now at University of Pacific and also highly ranked John Lucia graduated, the '71 call will go to one of three newcomers — all of whom have strong arms.

Jeff Hesselmeyer (6-3, 200) from Menlo-Atherton has a year of experience at Washington State to his credit. Because of his leadership ability, however, Tito Rael (6-0, 185) from Woodside could get the call over St. Francis grad Don Nava (6-1, 195) and Hesselmeyer, Tollner speculates.

The Bulldog mentor points out that he'll use all three QB's against Delta tomorrow, his starter probably opening each half and the other two relieving.

San Mateo has veteran receivers in Bill McCready (5-11, 170) from Woodside, plus Dan Romeo (6-0, 185) and Tom Karlo (5-9, 155), both out of Mills. But Romeo is just getting back after a hamstring pull the first day of practice.

Serramonte grad Ron Beltramo (6-0, 200) is pitted against Colorado Western transfer Grant Anderson (6-3, 215) at tight end. In the center, vets Rob Herman (5-10, 190) from Capuchino and Larry Cherveny (5-10, 200) from Hillsdale hope to resolve a possible problem position.

However the left side of the line is fairly stable, with veterans Dennis Luca (6-2, 210) from Sequoia at tackle and Terry Andreacchi (5-10, 195) from El Camino at guard.

And Tollner also welcomed a couple of frosh tackle candidates who are potentially "the best we've had" in Chris Graf (6-3, 210) from Hillsdale and Tom Douglas (6-3, 225) of San Carlos.

Cal's Problems

There are no less than three big tight ends.

Cal has some legitimate stars on defense, including preseason All-American pick Sherman White at tackle. He will be joined by 250-pound O. Z. White, who has played somewhat in Sherm's shadow. And the Bears have an All-conference defensive back in Ray Youngblood.

The Bears seem to have the material to succeed, even in a conference as brutal as the PAC-8. But whether they will or not is something only the players can tell.

Last Laugh

Byers and the NCAA got into some heavy disagreements with Yale University, and the Elis gave the NCAA the back of their collective hand.

That didn't cause much of a stir, because after all, Yale is hardly an institution known for its athletic prowess.

Or is it? It says here in the record book that Yale is football's only 600-game winner.

MPL Race Will Go to Experience

(6-1, 175) and Jack Lindsey. Tucker Hiatt (6-1, 195) should be an effective complement to Curry at outside linebacker. Steve Lamp, Dave Kelly, Mark Neuling and Gary Wakai provide some line experience.

Vince Marchi has only nine returning lettermen at Capuchino.

But there's plenty of experience in the receiver corps in seniors John Bomba (6-2, 185) and Walt Dabney (6-2,170). Senior Paul Accinelli (5-11, 195) will play both ways, at running back and linebacker. Senior Steve Turner (6-1, 180) should anchor the line, while All-MPL defensive back Gary Hicklin will provide some stability in the secondary.

Marchi has his choice of two quarterbacks between Ken Swan and Bruce LeClergue. LeClergue has a slight edge in experience and is an improved passer over last year; Swan runs the option a little better and he's a little quicker.

Harold Huffman gets his entire backfield back at Aragon, including junior quarterback Dave Matisi (6-1, 180) who matured rapidly last season. Matisi is a decent passer and a good sprinter. His running backs will be Mark Chorpening (5-11, 180) and Bill Popin, who turns 10.2 in the 100.

Huffman thinks that Aragon might cause someone some problems this year if that backfield stays healthy.

Bob Field, in his first year as head coach at Mills after being promoted from assistant, also has problems with experience. Only 31 juniors and seniors are out for the team. But he'll have Jay Merrill (6-1, 175) returning at quarterback, and Gary Armstrong (5-7, 155), a quick runner, back at halfback.

Big men on the line will be junior Joe Romeo (6-1, 200) and Ted Solomon (6-1, 205). Field thinks that Ken Menicucci (5-11, 160) could be a standout at defensive end.

CSM Plays More, Travels Less

College of San Mateo's 50th football team will play more games but travel proportionately less than any team since the first Bulldog squad in 1922.

The Mateans kick off the 1971 season at home against their two most distant foes on successive Saturday afternoons. This week its traditional rival San Joaquin Delta of Stockton, and next week American River of Sacramento comes to town.

California's 85 community college football teams have been allowed to add an optional tenth game to their schedules this season, so CSM will meet league foe San Jose CC in a practice encounter at San Jose, October 2, before opening Golden Gate Conference play October 9 on Diablo Valley's Astroturf in Pleasant Hill.

In fact, the Bulldogs will play back-to-back games on Astroturf, meeting Laney a week later on Contra Costa's new field in San Pablo.

That pair of hour trips will comprise CSM's most extensive traveling of the season.

And to make it convenient for fans, the Bulldogs are offering a $5 season ticket — good for admission to all ten games.

BILETNIKOFF DAZZLES CHIEFS — This is standard practice for the Raiders' receiver, but the Raiders as a team have failed to dazzle anybody in the long run — though their record is the best.

Raiders—Fame Comes With Super Bowl Spot

man said earlier in the season. "It could work the way the (Lance) Rentzel thing did at Dallas. After he had his trouble, the team really pulled together the rest of the way and didn't lose another game. It could hurt, but it might not."

Wells, incidentally, caught 156 passes for 42 Raider touchdowns before he ran afoul of the law, and was the hero of that last-second 14-13 win over the Jets last year.

Toward precluding another runnerup finish, however, the Raiders will have to make their biggest improvement on defense, an art which suffered noticeably at Oakland in 1971.

In their 8-4-2 regular season, the Raiders allowed but seven points less than they scored, a condition precipitated by early injuries to middle linebacker Dan Conners and cornerback Willie Brown, to say nothing of the NFL players' pre-season strike that hurt Oakland perhaps more than any other club.

This year, it is expected that the Raiders will opt more for the zone defense and the "bend but don't break" philosophy acted out by such practitioners as Dallas and Baltimore. The "bump and run" defense, which used to be the style of Oakland cornerbacks is expected to be utilized less.

With the zone, the Raiders may put a greater rush on rival passers than was formerly the case, specifically since the presence of rookie Jack Tatum, the Raiders' No. 1 draft choice from Ohio State, may need help at least early in the year.

Two other draftees may aid Oakland's defense cause this season. They are linebackers Greg Slough, another USC product, and Phil Villapiano, an unlikely star from Bowling Green.

If anything else is going for Oakland, it may be the schedule. Apart from one Monday night match-up at Cleveland, the Raiders will play all their games on Sunday, surely as God intended. Last season they played the Lions on Thanksgiving Day morning, for example, as one of five cross-country trips that has proved to be a special burden, from the time zone difference, for west coast teams. In 1971, the only games in the Eastern Time Zone will be Sunday's opener at Boston and the Monday match-up with the Browns.

In the AFC Western Division, the Raiders' biggest competition is again expected to come from Kansas City. For the Conference crown, there's the Colts — perhaps this time the victims of a different Raider finish.

Scots, Dons Are Cautious

By STEVE LOKKER

Ron Sweet and John Giangiacomo are cautiously allowing themselves the luxury of hope.

Sweet, first-year coach at Carlmont, and Giangiacomo, in his second year at San Carlos, have a common problem — building a winner after a long drought.

Carlmont's Scots were 3-6 last year, and the Dons were 0-9. The Scots' last winning season was 1968. The Dons have not had a winning season in the decade or so they've been in the South Peninsula Athletic League.

Sweet has set his sights on returning the Blue and Gray to the championship form that earned them the conference crown 10 seasons ago. He rests his hopes on a small group of eight returning lettermen, including senior quarterback Mark Wright and All-SPAL tackle Kent Krueger (brother of the 49ers' Charlie), a 6-5, 275-pound senior.

Wright, who completed more than 50 per cent of his passes last year, could be sharing the backfield with Howie Avila and Leigh Gullette, halfbacks who made the All-SPAL JV team last year. This combination of passing and speed gives Sweet the balance he wants.

"This is definitely a rebuilding year," Sweet says. "We are looking to be a winner. If we stay healthy, we could surprise a few people."

San Carlos' strengths are returning quarterback Jeff Lucas, a 5-11, 185-pound senior, and a deep backfield.

Giangiacomo has five lads vying for the remaining backfield spots including senior running back Steve Gritsch and senior flanker Keith Foskett, two of the 15 returning lettermen.

Kerry Bernardo, Tim Bennett and Jim Edelstein, all seniors, provide the depth.

"We have quite a few boys returning," Giangiacomo says, "and we have a number of big boys, over 200 pounds, for the first time."

Both coaches think the team to catch in the SPAL with be Gunn. But the Titans, champs in '69 and runnerup last year, will face a strong challenge from defending champion Cubberley and from Woodside.

"Woodside could be the team to beat this year," says Sweet. "They probably have the best combined record over the past four or five years of anyone in the league." Sweet also felt that Sequoia might take a hand in the fight for the title.

GUNN

The Titans have a scrambling quarterback and some quick scatbacks operating behind an experienced line. Senior Don Briggs (5-9, 155) hit well under 50 per cent on his passing last year, but has excellent receivers in senior Paul Deschamps (5-8, 165) and Greg Fowler (5-11, 175). Anchoring the line may be second team All-SPAL Jeff Fletcher (5-11, 175) and All-SPAL frosh-soph standout Bob Howe (6-2, 210).

WOODSIDE

The Wildcats should bend a few bodies this year behind a big, hungry and experienced line led by defensive ends Doug Kaewert (6-2, 190) and Jeff Peralta (6-1, 195). Scott Davis and Mike Livingston were both All-SPAL defensive backs on the junior varsity. And coach Troy Ratliff has 10 linebackers to choose from.

CUBBERLEY

The Cougars return only three starters from the squad that took all the marbles last year. The Cougars are solid at linebacker with George Rupp (5-10, 190) and Larry Wilson (6-0, 190), who may double in the offensive backfield. Second team All-SPAL defensive back Jim Jenke returns, and may get the quarterback call as well after a position battle with junior Dan English (5-10, 160).

SEQUOIA

Sequoia lost one offensive standout, but another will return to take up the slack. Tailback Tink Reynoso, the SPAL total offense record holder, went to CSM and gave up football. But senior Tim Mehan (6-0, 180) will be around to pierce enemy lines as coach Al Smith junks a Sequoia institution, the single wing, for Darrell Royal's Wishbone-T. Raul Mendivil (5-10, 185) was a linebacker last year, but Smith has switched him to quarterback.

PALO ALTO

Palo Alto coach Bill Donohue would like to show opponents a balance attack this year, but there's little doubt that his charges will put the ball in the air often. For one thing, Paly has the class of the SPAL flingers in senior quarterback Dan Hagemann, who's closing in on all the SPAL passing records that ever were. He'll have premier receiver Walt Barret (5-10, 165), a veteran with 45 catches last season, and a host of other hopefuls to throw at.

MENLO-ATHERTON

Bear coach Ben Parks has the unenviable chore of teaching a green team the fine points of the Wishbone-T offense. But he's not the type of quail from such a task. He's got one essential ingredient of that offense in big fullback Scott Anderson (6-2, 220), who switches from defensive back and quarterback. The Bears may have trouble on the line, though; the starters are eager, but for the most part inexperienced.

RAVENSWOOD

First-year coach William Vines inherits a perpetual depth problem with the Trojans, but he does have a legitimate star or two—if they stay healthy. Massive lineman Dave Gavino (5-8, 260) is quick enough to play linebacker on defense. 6-1, 225 pound receiver Chris Minor shouldn't have much trouble working with his quarterback—it's his brother Lloyd, a 6-4, 210-pound giant who made the unlikely switch from two-way lineman.

Menlo Looks For Brighter Grid Season

San Mateo County's small division entry in the JC football wars, Menlo College, has good reason to expect better things after last year's 0-8 campaign.

Second year coach Don Baikie has recruited a good group of prep stars, mostly from the South Peninsula Athletic League, to join ten returning lettermen. Thirty-eight of the fewer than 50 (predominantly male) students at Menlo turned out for this year's team.

Baikie is especially optimistic over his passing game, with veteran signal caller Jim Moore (6-1, 10 from St. Ignatius) having "acquired the needed game experience" and some excellent frosh to complement returning tight end Mike Snyder (6-1, 190).

Sequoia grad Snyder snagged 18 passes last year. Meanwhile Moore had an impressive 13 for 20 starting debut late in the season against Coast Conference champion Gavilan.

Tailback candidates include Reg Bramlett (5-10, 180) from Cubberley and Ed Nielson (5-9, 180) out of Menlo-Atherton.

Baikie has a couple of fullback-linebacker vets in Mike Humphrey (5-11, 190), a Terra Nova grad, and Bruce Brodie (6-1, 200) from Burlingame. He's also moving Menlo School grad Chuck Johnson (6-1, 215), starting tackle last year, to a linebacker spot.

Meanwhile 6-1, 230 pound returning tackle Bob DeBaun from Novato "will head-up a tough defensive units," according to Baikie.

Menlo begins non-league competition this afternoon at three a petition this afternoon at three at San Francisco State Frosh, then hosts Napa September 24.

Coast Conference play gets underway October 23 when the Oaks visit Ohlone — which edged them, 14-12, last season for the lone Renegade victory of the year and relegated Menlo to the cellar. Baikie is hopeful this year's cross-Bay clash will be just one step towards erasing the memories of 1970.

Public to View New Hearing Aid

A new compression hearing aid that amplifies low signals and compresses strong signals will be displayed this month at the office of Custom Hearing Aid Service.

If you suffer from hearing problems and have searched for an answer, you may find it here. The all new compression hearing aid controls those too loud noises and lets you hear what you want to hear in crowds, in church, in traffic, noisy restaurants, and particularly in group conversations.

Although much expense has been incurred in the development of the compression hearing aid and many years of research envolved, it is moderately priced to the consumer and can be fitted to almost all hearing losses.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Finocchio's Colorful Revue One Of The Best

The colorful summer revue at Finocchio's is one of the best shows ever presented at this world-famous nightclub by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Finocchio. Flickering fluorescent lighting heightens the dramatic impact of the spectacular production numbers — Jamaica, Latin Fantasy and "Hello, Dolly," directed by Joel Nobel. Show stoppers are the strip routines of Holly White and Bobby D'Castro; the "roaring twenties" Charleston of Reggie Dahl; Lucien's quipping and singing songs made famous by the late Sophie Tucker; chanteuse Laverne Cummings, and the droll presentation of "Girl From Ipenema" by Elton Paris. Others high in the entertainment list include "Ton-of fun Russell Reed, Jackie Phillips, Rene & Antonio, Ty Lindstrom, Estuardo, Carroll Wallace, and the dazzling chorus line called the Eve-ettes. It all adds up to a great evening, with four shows nightly . . . "Treats of the sea" is just one of the specialties at Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant in San Mateo. The various fish are excellent however prepared — baked, poached, fried, broiled or creamed. The Licatas have improved their restaurant without sacrificing any of its charming simplicity.

THESE PERKY LASSIES, Linda, Rene and Linda, provide attentive, friendly dinner service at the Lord Fletcher Inn, where authentic English grog and cuisine is featured. The always-smiling waitresses are prime examples of the welcome, old-English atmosphere that prevails at the elegant Atherton restaurant.

Enrico Romano's Fame Spreads

If Enrico Romano's reputation has spread to your ears, don't be surprised. This man's fame as a pizza maker is known throughout the Bay Area. As owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, he has a chance daily to practice his art — and each day his reputation grows that much more . . . The Benjamin Franklin Hotel has a solution to your banquet and party problems: Complete facilities are available for groups up to 300 persons, and chef Tom Delano is ever mindful of the educated appetite. The Greenwillow dining room is also recommended to the budget-conscious who still insist upon top quality. Breakfast, luncheon and dinner service, with Chef's Specials being priced the same during lunch and dinner . . . (entrees changed daily). Jumbo Martini cocktails are served in the Club Seville. Pour your own drink—the cost is only 75 cents and is served by the pitcher . . . Family night is every night at Sctoty Campbell's. A selective menu suggests such mealtime features as Barbecued Baby Ribs and Broiled Mahi Mahi. The atmosphere of the past has been retained and the traditional spiri of hospitality is evident in the courtesy of the owners and their staff.

Joe Piccinini Is Also Chef

Although Oreste's owner, Joe Piccinini, is one of the best known maitre d's in San Francisco, many people do not realize that he is also an excellent chef and supervises the kitchen in his restaurant to be sure each dish is cooked just right. He will also cook personally any dish of your choice. Banquet rooms are available for groups of most any size. Located in a well lighted area in the heart of San Francisco, Oreste's is free from traffic with parking across the street . . . Bill DeRiuter, waiter at L'Auberge in Atherton, and George Bollag, partner in the restaurant, are back from a nautical jaunt to San Diego. They went aboard Bill's beautiful 40-foot trimaran, along with other friends. Because of coastal fog, they lost touch with their wives ashore, but all ended well. Except that George is listing to port in the kitchen, until he gets his equilibrium back . . . Sid Yanoff, dapper meat cutter at Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina district, claims to be San Francisco's only "high fashion butcher." Sid cuts extra-choice steaks to order wearing mod outfits from his extensive wardrobe.

Brotherly Love To Deejay's

The management at Deejay's has signed yet another great band to perform at the Belmont nitery on Monday and Tuesday nights. The newest addition to the bistro's marquee is Brotherly Love, a multi-talented group which will be showcased indefinitely. Playing rockin' dance sounds the remaining five nights of the week is The Sound Barrier, a group sparkling with personality and good music . . . A tourist who was visiting Clancy's for the first time was completely enchanted by the sweet voice of organist Margie Brandon and kept repeating "There ought to be a law against singing so beautifully." Margie, who sings with a lot of heart and soul, has never had a lesson in her life. Guess you'd say she does what comes naturally . . . Frank and Fannie Torres' Montara Beach Hotel Restaurant, overlooking the rugged but beautiful waters of the Pacific, is famed for South American specialties. We recommend you drop in and try the Papas Rellenas (a Peruvian dish) served with green salad, and you won't find a tastier meal than their Abalone Steak, Meunier Sauce. Deluxe dinners are served with assorted hors d'oeuvres, soup du Jour and Frank Torres' special salad. How about Banana Fritters, with special sauce, for dessert!

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Papagayo Room Staffed By A Team Of Experts

A question we are often asked is "What makes a successful restaurant?" and we are always hard-put to answer, because success is an intangible thing that comes often to some and never to others. However, one aspect that always seems to shed some light on this unique system is people. Perhaps the answer should be: "A restaurant is only as successful as the people who run it." A prime example of this is the Papagayo Room at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Owned and operated by the dynamic Nick Gust, former Mayor of Pacifica, this Mexican restaurant is staffed by a team of experts that, under the aegis of Guest, functions in such a capacity to bring about the aforementioned success. Mr. Gust himself is an unusual man who has long been a restaurateur of the finest order. He also owns both Nick's (across the street from the Papagayo) and The Moonraker, an elegant restaurant located upstairs which affords a sweeping view of the turbulent Pacific Ocean. Nick is a man who has his hand in many enterprises at once, and he's always amazing us with his new exploits. Lorraine Gust, otherwise known as Mrs. Gust, impresses us as being just as active as Nick, for she is continually handling affairs within all three restaurants with her professional friendliness. If she seems to be beaming with excessive pride these days, it's because her son, Charles Nicholas, was just married to the lovely Ruth Marie Carver in a ceremoney that Pacifica is still talking about.

SAMMY HO, bartender of 28 years at the Villa Chartier, always treats patrons like old friends—and has a host of friends to prove it.

Hyatt House Features New Entertainment Skit

A new entertainment policy prevails in Hugo's Bistro at Hyatt House Burlingame. Because of the many after-dinner patrons relaxing in the lounge, General Manager Bill Griffin has decided to feature live entertainment every night of the week, Tuesday through Saturday, starting at 7 p.m. This is one of the earliest starting times for nightly dance sounds on the Peninsula. Current attraction in the plush lounge is the smooth sounding Tony Masters Trio . . . New winter rates, which are considerably lower, will be in effect after September 18 for all bookings through the Bay Area's Park Avenue Tours. These include both the bus excursions and the drive-ups to any of their Nevada fun locations. For more information, contact one of Park Avenue Tours' four Bay Area offices . . . Sergio Garzetti, the European troubador entertaining at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto, won a voice competition from the Conservatory of Lyric Opera while in Montreal. He sings in Yugoslavian, Italian, French, Spanish, English, Yiddish and a few more languages. Sergio serenades you during dinner hour and later in the cocktail lounge.

Golden Rooster Lounge Popular

The new "Attitude Adjustment Hours" at the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, have proved a smash success. Inaugurated a couple of weeks ago by general manager Ted Downes, the after-work scene in the hotel's Golden Rooster Lounge is wall-to-wall with happy customers. Happenings here for the 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. hours of "Adjustment" are hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, live entertainment, featuring Daryl on guitar and vocals, and girls and more girls. You just know you'll find the gals gathered here because they may sip cocktails for half-price during these hours . . . Judging from the many out-of-state auto plates appearing in the Fisherman's Wharf parking area surrounding A. Sabella's restaurant, it is quite obvious that the summer vacation set is still on the prowl. The water-side of the long dining room affords views of the Bay and the bustling activity along Fisherman's Wharf . . . Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco, open seven evenings a week, is a popular dinner stop for theater-goers. It's within easy walking distance of 10 downtown theaters, and has ample parking at the "Carriage Entrance."

Original Smorgasbord Style

Redwood City's original King's Table has been such a big success, the owners now have another location in Mountain View. Both of these smorgasbord-style restaurants provide diners with a dazzling array of entrees, salads and desserts at a remarkably low price for both lunch and dinner. The Redwood City location also has excellent banquet facilities to accommodate from 15 to 200 persons . . . For a different type of evening out, make reservations for a wonderful Japanese dinner in one of the private tatami rooms at the Irifune Japanese restaurant. Toshio Kiyohara, gracious owner of this San Mateo restaurant, serves only the finest in authentic Japanese cuisine which is served with considerable flair by kimono-clad waitresses. The Irifune is also open for luncheon daily, Monday through Friday . . . The Trio Orfeo, a well known group that has recorded on some of this country's leading record labels, continues to play up a storm at the Greek Taverna of North Beach. This is a swinging Greek in-spot where such notables as disc jockey Don Sherwood show up repeatedly.

Supervisors See Proposal on Mountain

"I'm glad we don't have to make the decision."

This was the expression of James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, Tuesday following presentation by Crocker Land Company representatives of the proposed development for the 3600-acre Visitacion Rancho area of San Bruno Mountain.

Frank Calton, Crocker project manager, reiterated his presentation of last month before north county city officials concerning the hopes for a 36,000-person community evolving over a period of 25 years.

Although it appears that the future development of San Bruno Mountain may be under the auspices of one of the abutting incorporated cities, Calton did not rule out the possibility of an expansion of the Guadalupe Municipal Improvement District to encompass the proposed project.

"It's a possibility," Calton told the board, noting that the Crocker Industrial Park, which presently comprises the district, "has all the requirements except zoning."

A lot of the questions concerning jurisdiction of future development of Visitacion Rancho may be solved by the County Local Agency Formation Commission which will begin sphere of influence hearings concerning the area at its November 3 meeting.

Board members expressed interest in the future fate of the quarry between the industrial park and the town of Brisbane which has been posing problems for area residents.

Calton said the quarry is on a phase-out program and should be terminated in five years. Landscape architect Doug Baylis reported that it is hoped to regenerate native foliage on the quarry site and to experiment with chemicals to tone down the bright rock scars where foliage won't grow.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair, noting that the anticipated population of the development would average about 25 persons an acre, inquired as to the possibility of high-rise dwellings.

Calton replied that it is believed garden apartments of a maximum three stories, plus townhouses and single-family homes can accommodate the density without high-rise.

The project manager said it is planned that the planned development can be fitted in the present topography without a lot of earth moving.

NEW POST — Officer Frank S. Brown has been appointed Traffic Safety Coordinator of South San Francisco's new pedestrian and bicycle safety project. The project will "identify and improve" problem areas. It also will develp procedures of counting traffic, safety evaluation and safety education. The project is to be carried out at no cost to the city through a $54,000 from the State Office of Traffic Safety and the National Highway Safety Bureau.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Daly City's San Bruno Office, 111 San Bruno Avenue West, is nearing completion and is to open for business at 10 a.m. Friday, October 1. There will be an open house September 30, between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. with refreshments and an hourly award of a fist full of Kennedy Half Dollars. The contractor is Joseph Ragni & Son, Inc., 48 Chester, Daly City.

Baptists Outline Activities

The fall program for the Pacifica Westside Baptist Church's Girls' Missionary Guild will resume at 7:30 p.m. today.

This is a program for girls sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the church. Mrs. Joan Allen is the Coordinator. There will be three age groups meeting this week: Primary, Junior and Junior High.

At this same hour, the Adult Bible Study Hour meets in the church sanctuary. Pastor David Donnelly is leading in a study of the 12th chapter of the book of Romans.

September 16 at 7:30 p.m., high school and college age youth meet at the church for prayer and bible study.

September 18 at 10:30 a.m. at the Junipero Serra Park (Willow Shelter) the annual Sunday School picnic will be held. Superintendent Alton Swedberg will be in charge. There will be games and activities for all age groups. Lunch will be served at 12:15 p.m.

At 10 a.m. September 18, at the Grace Baptist Church of Napa, the District Council of the Northern California Baptist Conference will meet. Moderator for this session will be the Rev. Elliot Paulsen, pastor of Fairway Park Baptist Church of Hayward. Pastor Donnelly, and Council member Elmore Parker will be in attendance.

September 19 at the 10:55 a.m. morning Worship Hour service, Pastor Donnelly will be bringing another message from the book of Colossians, "Live on the Plus Side." Special music for this service will be provided by vocal soloist. Mrs. Mary Anne Fairall of Saratoga.

Children's church for boys and girls four through seven years of age meets during the adult worship hour. Nursery for toddlers and babies is maintained also.

"A New Sphere" is the sermon topic for the 7 p.m. Family Fellowship Gospel Hour message. Special music will be provided at this service. At this hour also, a missionary film strip depicting the work of Baptist General Conference foreign missionaries in Ethiopia, "Ethiopia Impact" will be shown.

September 21 at 7:30 p.m., Boy's Brigade meets at the church social hall. This is an older boys program for boys 12-18 years of age, sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood of the church.

Flying 'Ark' Takes Off For Japan

A modern-day "Noah's Ark" flew out of San Francisco International Airport headed for Japan recently.

Carrying the largest assortment of livestock ever put aboard a single plane, the Flying Tiger plane was chartered by Nosawa and Company to export California livestock to improve breeding lines in Japan.

The cargo included two bulls, 50 cattle, 87 pigs, and 21 boars, but they weren't loaded "two-by-two."

Each bull and each boar was boarded in a separate crate, said terminal operations Manager Mike Gurley, pigs were divided among several pens, and larger pens were built for the 50 cows.

Not All Usherettes are Nice

Writing a sports column is mostly fun, because essentially you are writing about games, and games are seldom a really serious matter, and people in sports are seldom obnoxious because generally they don't take themselves seriously and are usually doing the kind of work they like. So you can usually write pleasantly and be pleasantly accepted, and, especially as you get older, you can appreciate the tranquility of a trouble-free writing existence. Lord knows, one has enough troubles without writing oneself into them.

But every once in a while, if a writer has any integrity, he has to write an unpleasant column about unpleasant people which will undoubtedly bring unpleasant acceptance. Unless a writer is a masochist, he doesn't like to write such columns, but his first allegiance should be to his readers, not subjects.

Three weeks ago I did a column about the usherettes at Candlestick Park. It was a pleasant column to write because the usherettes were pleasant peopie and fun to write about, and the column came out pleasant and was pleasantly accepted.

But now I must honestly report to you readers that contrary to what that column may have led you to believe, not ALL usherettes at Candlestick are pleasant, polite people. There is at least one of them whom I would definitely not take to lunch.

In fact, the woman who was working section 1, row 19, seats 25 and 26 in the lower reserves on September 1, was pretty damned nasty.

ON THAT DAY I, along with a guest, went to a Giant game against the Braves as a civilian. It was a warm day, so we decided to sit under the stands in the reserves, and we also decided that any place in the park would be fine as long as we were on the aisle, the better to make quick dashes to the snack bars and comfort stations.

When we got to the ticket booth, we said to the lady, "Two reserves, any place in the stadium, as long as they are on the aisle." She smiled and handed us two tickets in section 1, row 19, seats 25 and 26, which didn't look like aisle seats to us. "Are you sure these are aisle seats?" we asked, and she smiled and nodded her head.

Once in the stadium we handed our tickets to the usherette in charge of that section, and she guided us to two seats that were several places in from the aisle.

The ticket seller had obviously made a mistake, and we would have returned to the ticket booth and asked for an exchange, but the game had already started, and the attendance that day, if we recall, was only around 10,000, so there were plenty of nearby aisle seats available.

As close as we can remember it, the following conversation ensued: ME: Oh, those seats aren't on the aisle, so we'll just sit on two of the empty aisle seats, and if anybody shows up with tickets for them, we'll move.

SHE: Oh no you won't, you'll sit where you bought your seat.

ME: But that's the point. I bought my seats on the aisle. These aren't aisle seats.

SHE: But that isn't what you were sold, so you'll sit in the seats that you have tickets for.

ME: But that's the ticket seller's mistake, not mine. And I'm not going to sit where I didn't want to sit because of somebody else's mistake, especially where there are other empty seats available.

SHE: Listen you! One more word out of you and I'll go up and have you thrown out of the park!

THIS STUNNED US. Absolutely set us back on our heels. What had happened to the lessons these usherettes were taught, to always be pleasant to customers even if they are roaring drunks, even if it hurts? What had happened to the general business principle that the customer is always right? What, in fact, had happened to just plain, everyday common courtesy and common sense?

Here we were, two people who had driven miles, paid $1.25 to get into the parking lot and still had to walk the equivalent of about two city blocks, not counting Cardiac Hill, had shelled out $7 for seats we didn't want, and were not drunk or boisterous, but just a little perturbed for having been wronged — and this woman was going to have US thrown out of the park!

It might have been different if we were insisting on sitting in higher priced seats. But all we wanted to do was move over a few seats.

There is a certain gentleman who is at virtually every home game, often drunk, always boisterous, and who occasionally swings his cane in the general direction of people, including players (who sometimes allow him in the dugout before games), who the usherettes smile at and largely ignore because, "If you ignore characters, they usually go away." And US, this woman was going to throw out of the park!

Luckily, at that juncture, she got busy with other customers, strode away in a huff, and we sat on aisle seats which, incidentally, weren't ever sold that day.

Later, after she had cooled off somewhat (but not enough to apologize), this woman started making excuses for the ticket sellers. Her strongest argument was that it is often hard to tell what seats are on the aisles.

Forgetting the absurdity of that statement (if the Giants have ticket sellers that incompetent, it's a wonder they aren't 10,000 fist fights a game), since we had asked the ticket seller a second time if she was sure our seats were on the aisle, if she hadn't been sure she should have said so instead of nodding her head (which in our neighborhood is at least a tacit affirmative) and affirming for the second time that they were on the aisle.

THAT IS OUR STORY, and it hurt to write because if it hadn't been for the cooperation of our friend Walter Mails and Giant Business Manager Jerry Donovan, truly one of the nicest guys in baseball, I would never have been able to write that original story on the usherettes.

Sure as I write this, somebody in the Giant front office is going to take offense at this account, consider it an attack on the entire Giant organization, especially on the team, as somebody did last year when I wrote a column about how it was almost impossible to buy a sandwich at Candlestick. And then it may reflect on Mails, or Donovan, or both, because they were the ones who gave this fink access to the inner sanctum.

But take my word, fellas, I still love and support the Giants as always, and think every usherette I've ever met at Candlestick is great except one — and maybe one ticket seller.

I hate to be the Ralph Nader of Candlestick, but I may be the only columnist in the Bay Area who actually sits in the stands as a paying customer — by choice — 90 per cent of the time, and there ain't nobody in the detoxified, unreal world of the press box who is going to know what's going on down among us minions by sitting in the stands for three innings on opening day.

Even if it's only one turkey sandwich, or one rude, senseless usherette, somebody should know about it.

TAG ENDS: Despite their recent batting slump the Giants, as this is written, have still been shutout less than any team in the majors.

As for further proof to our continuing contention that fielding statistics — with a few possible exceptions — mean almost nothing, consider the following:

The eighth and ninth clubs in total doubleplays in the National League are the Giants and Pirates, who happen to be first in their respective divisions in the most important statistic in baseball — number of games won. Cincinnati, the flop team of the majors this year, has the most DP's in the NL.

Over in that other league, Baltimore, which may be the best team in baseball, is 10th in total DP's; the A's, who some claim is the best team in baseball, are only fourth in that department; and Washington, which is certainly at least one of the worst teams in baseball, leads the AL in DP's.

Country Clubbers Move Into First

The Country Clubbers moved into first place in the Daly City Adult Slow Pitch B League South as they defeated previously unbeaten J&J Plumbing, 8-6. The game went into extra innings with the score tied 6-6.

Mike Ciardella led off the ninth inning for the Country Clubbers with a single. Dave Garrison then boomed a long double to score Ciardella with the tie-breaking run.

Garrison later scored the final Country Clubber's run on an error.

Jim Benevides and John Jarvis also had hits for the Country Clubbers, while Jerry Gordon played a great defensive game for the Clubbers.

In the final game of the week, Mike Mjehovich and Nick Castro got back-to-back hits in the sixth inning to drive in the go-ahead run and lead the Pomona Casuals to a 7-3 victory over Molloy's Springs. The victory was the Casuals first in league play. Jim Franco pitched a fine game to aid the Casuals cause.

Lady J's Leathers used great team defense to down previously unbeaten Mr. G's Radicals by a score of 10-3. The victory moved Lady J's into a tie for first place with the Radicals. The fine all-around play of Irv Witham aided Lady J's greatly. Irv made a fine unassisted double play and constantly made the big play to cut off a Radicals' rally. Walter Ortiz led the Radicals attack as he collected three hits.

In other important games the Whispers moved into the title picture by clobbering Nestle Co. by a score of 14-2. The victory was the second in a row for the Whispers and put them a half game behind the leaders. The improving Whispers got four hits from Jerry Montague, Rick De La Cruz and Greg Hansen. The Whispers look like they have pulled themselves together and have a good shot at the championship.

In the final game of the week, the Coast Guard got their first win of the season by defeating the winless Mind Blowers by a score of 9-7. The Coast Guard used great all-around team play to defeat the Mindblowers.

Shell and Sun Valley Tied in Coast Loop

Two home runs by Bob McClure helped Pacifica Shell to overpower Ski & Dive, 9-2, keeping them tied with Sun Valley for the top position in the Late Summer Softball League in Pacifica.

Sun Valley Dairy remained in a tie for first place by containing the bats of the 2901 Club, and showing a good defence while taking a close 5 to 4 decision.

Jimmy White was the hero of the day for Ski & Dive August 31 as he busted up a tie game with Baroni's with a clutch home run for a 10-9 victory.

Pacifica Shell maintained its share of first place by dominating play over Silver Moon in a 9-2 game, September 1.

Solid pitching by Yukio Manabe enabled Manor Barber to hand Lou's 66 its third straight loss by the score of 6-3, September 2, moving Coach Sam Tellez and his squad into second place.

Local Golfers Score 'Aces'

For Ed Hogan of Millbrae it was a novelty; for Nelse Miller of San Mateo, it was not.

The two Peninsula shotmakers each scored a hole-in-one last week. For Hogan, it was the first of his golfing career. For Miller it was number two.

Miller's ace came on the 168-yard second hole at San Mateo muni links.

Millbrae Hosts Women Bowlers

The Peninsula Women's 500 Bowling Club will hold its first annual tournament Saturday at the Millbrae Bowl.

Signups are now being taken for the tournament, which is scheduled to get underway at 6 p.m.

No One Wants to Use Field

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco councilmen learned last week that the city has a $300,000 baseball diamond in the Westborough section no one wants to use.

Two leagues wanting to use the Orange Memorial Park diamond on Saturdays and Sundays from September through December shunned Westborough.

An umpire-like decision by Mayor Bill Borba settled the rhubarb, but left Westborough's diamond idle.

Borba sent Councilmen Patrick Ahern and Warren Steinkamp to huddle, with a resultant compromise that one league will play in the mornings, the other in the afternoons at Orange Memorial Park.

The rhubarb developed when councilmen were asked to reverse a Park and Recreation decision to deny use of Orange Memorial Park by a new youth winter league, sending them, instead, to the Westborough diamond.

Westborough was ruled undesirable because of bad weather and no infield turf by Bob Brian, 17-year veteran of organizing youth teams in South San Francisco.

"Nobody wants to play at Westborough Park," said Brian. He claimed his league of local youths sponsored by a local businessman was being ousted by a San Francisco Giants rookie league made up of college youths.

Brian contended this constituted a violation of the Park and Recreation rules which stipulate that local groups get first priority on recreation areas.

George Coulter, chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission, said the rookie league has been playing at its desired times for the past ten years. He said some of the participants are South San Francisco youths, too.

Coulter said the commissioners were of the opinion Brian's newly formed league could play its games, this year at least on the Westborough diamond.

"Let the Giants play at Westborough," said Brian.

This response apparently upset Commissioner Henry Vom Steeg, who lashed out at Brian. "Is that a proper attitude — 'I'm not going to play if I can't have my Orange Memorial Park' — for an instructor and coach?" chided Vom Steeg.

He said he couldn't see throwing out a league that has been operating for ten years.

Brian had his supporters, too.

Mrs. Paul Henley said, "I feel if the city paid $300,000 for the Westborough Park they have been gypped. The infield is gravel and the fog is so heavy you can't see where you are going."

Bob Albright, a Westborough resident, noted the name Westborough has seemingly always carried a bad connotation. "I didn't think even kids playing ball didn't want us," he said, tongue-in-cheek.

On the serious side, Albright said he was "glad things came out tonight to prove our (Westborough residents) point. This (need for turf on the Westborough diamond) is something we've hollered for."

Superintendent of Parks and Recreation Bob Maxey said the one reason no turf was put on the diamond was because it is utilized by all age groups.

"No one under 13 would be able to play there because they would have to run base paths across the turf," he said.

So for this year, anyhow, Brian's league will play its games in the morning and the rookies will have the Orange Memorial Park field in the afternoon.

New Patrolmen in SSF

South San Francisco police have added two new patrolmen to the ranks, as of the first of September.

Charles Davis, 21, is a former San Carlos Police Reserve Officer, and was a member of the San Carlos Police Explorers.

Leo E. Tealdi, 27, a resident of South San Francisco for one year, is a veteran of the Vietnam conflict, and a reserve Army lieutenant.

Davis, a native of Utica, New York, is a graduate of San Carlos High School, and attended Canada College for two years, studying political science. He is married.

Tealdi is a native of San Francisco. He attended Bellarmine College Prep School in San Jose, obtained a B.A. in psychology from the University of San Francisco and gained one year of post-graduate work at San Francisco State College.

El Camino Project OK'd In South S.F.

Improvement plans for the landscaping of El Camino Real, including construction of a sidewalk and ramp, have been approved by South San Francisco councilmen.

The project, from Noor to West Orange Avenue, is estimated to cost $81,000. Councilmen authorized a call for bids on the work last week.

The sidewalk and ramp will be installed on the east side of El Camino Real, opposite Country Club Drive, to provide access to a pedestrian crosswalk.

According to architect David Mayes, maintenance of the final $6,400 annually. He said the beautifucation will include a project will cost an estimated completely automatic irrigation system.
